Eden Moves Forces to Suez Region, Calls Up Some Reservists

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Folks!
Catching Up on My Notes
—When we went out to the airport last night to meet Cliff Lumsdon, I was all ready to give him a sisterly hand-shake. After all, The Chief is married now, and to the former Joan Cooke, one of my best girl friends.

But when Cliff stepped off the plane, he said, "Hi, Shorty," and gave me a peck on the cheek. We had to repeat the performance three times for the benefit of photographers and then Cliff embarrassed the daylight out of me by enquiring loudly, "Any more photographers around?"

Sarcasm? The Chief has enough for two people. I was driving him from the airport and the first time I stopped for a stop sign, Cliff said sweetly, "Your driving certainly has improved."

The worst part of my training swim is when I come out of the water and land at the Oak Bay Boathouse. It's not the water or the swimming that gets me. It's that tantalizing smell of hamburgers and onions frying in butter that wafts down from the coffee shop. And I can't have any.

When we came in from our six-hour swim the other day, we met a Victoria man at the jetty. His name was Ken Lloyd and he had a piece of rolled-up paper in his hand. He showed it to Gus and me, and, of all things, it was a Lakeshore Swimming Club certificate, signed by Gus, stating that Ken Lloyd had passed the Lakeshore 50-foot swimming test 18 years ago. Did someone say something about a small world?

I had my hair trimmed at the Hilda Beauty Salon yesterday and they were so nice to me that I became even more convinced than ever that Victoria people are among the nicest in the world.

Search Continues

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The search continued today for L. F. Nix, 32, of Cow Bay and his son Brian, 9, whose small skiff was found overturned near Seal Cove air base near here.

Eligible By 1957

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said today the government hopes that Canada's 72,000 employed and self-employed fishermen will be eligible for unemployment insurance by the end of 1957. (See "In-Parliament" page 3.)

Burmese Battle Reds

KUNLONG FERRY, Northern Burma (AP)—Burmese Army troops met Chinese Reds in a bloody six-hour border battle, killing one Red and nine soldiers, a Burmese Army commander reported today.

Death Ends Filming

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UP)—Underwater filming of the sunken liner Andrea Doria was called off today because of the drowning of an expedition member in a practice skin dive in Nantucket harbor.

CCF Moves Right

Convention Split But Okays Change

See also Page 3

WINNIPEG (CP)—The CCF national convention today bogged down for more than an hour in debate over the party's proposed new draft of principles calling for support of private business.

Long discussion on one paragraph of the 24-paragraph declaration uncovered wide divergence of opinion among delegates and indicated how sharp the political right the CCF is planning to turn.

Swift adoption of 13 paragraphs of the new declaration, which is to supersede the 1933 Regina Manifesto, was held up with sometimes heated speeches on a section that advocated aid and opportunity to private enterprise "which can make a useful contribution to the development of our economy."

The section originally gave CCF approval to "increased opportunities and security for private business." However, about 200 delegates carried an amendment moved by George Grube of Toronto changing the wording to:

"The CCF, therefore, will provide appropriate opportunities for private business..."

SEEN AS SORE SPOT
Obviously touching on a theoretical sore spot, debate continued on other sentences and possible distortion of their meaning.

Fred Tipping of Winnipeg said he "sudders" to think of how he will explain the role of free enterprise in a co-operative commonwealth society. He urged the convention to change the clause to make clear private business was needed only during a "transition period" to socialism.

This immediately drew opposition from Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, CCF national chairman David Lewis, Alec MacDonald of Vancouver and J. E. Cooper of Regina.

Mr. MacDonald said the proposed change was "dangling a noose before the eyes of business men." They were faced with the alternative of being swallowed up by big monopolies or having a CCF government do away with them.

Premier Douglas gave perhaps the strongest defence of private enterprise. "Socialism and state ownership are not synonymous terms," he said. "Nowhere have we said public ownership is the only means of enriching the life of the people."

MANY IN MIDDLE

Great sections of the Canadian people were middle class, small business owners, he added. They were not the "discontented proletariat" of early Europe.

Premier Douglas continued: "The element of choice is desirable in an economy. Where choice is taken away then freedom is lost."

However, Charlie Biesek, Winnipeg delegate, pleaded that the CCF should not place itself in Liberal hands.

Support came from Spencer Cheshire, Durham, Ont., who charged that some party members were being swayed by capitalist propaganda. He objected to an economy half Socialist and half free enterprise.

But Mr. Lewis claimed the idea must be abandoned that free enterprise must be merely tolerated.

"We must favor its growth in making a contribution to society. In the half of the world where it has been abolished a totalitarian government now exists."

EXPECTING IN FEBRUARY

Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco is expecting a baby in February, Prince Rainier proudly told his people in a radio broadcast today. The beautiful movie actress and the Monaco prince were married last April 18. Joy among the Monegasques is unbounded today—an heir to the throne will bring continued freedom from taxes and military service.

BALL GAME, SUPPER, FILM

Air Cadets Host Oakalla Prisoners

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—Twenty-six prisoners from Oakalla prison, accompanied by six unarmed guards wearing sports clothes, visited the Royal Canadian Air Cadet camp here Wednesday.

The visit was part of a new rehabilitation program to bridge the gap between prison and civilian life.

The prisoners, who did not wear prison uniforms, were mostly members of the Oakalla Cubs softball team, and played a game with a cadet team at the camp. It was halted because of rain.

The men were allowed to mix and chat freely with cadets. They had supper on arrival and saw a film before playing softball.

They were under the guidance of senior correction officers Graham Watt and Bob Burns.

The prisoners were carefully screened. A visit was paid to Abbotsford last year, but Wednesday was the first time the ball team was accompanied by spectators.

Station commander at the Abbotsford camp, Wing Cmdr. F. W. MacDonnell, said, "We are delighted to be able to ask the men from Oakalla to visit us."

New Jets Coming Here

VANCOUVER (CP)—The two RCAF auxiliary squadrons at suburban Sea Island will get delivery of 16 new Sabre jets, eight T-33 jet trainers and four Harvard propeller-driven aircraft before Sept. 1, air force officials said.

30 Die in Revolt

EGUGIGAIPA, Honduras (AP)—Extra troops patrolled the Honduran capital today in the wake of an abortive seven-hour revolt that claimed at least 30 lives. But citizens went to work as usual.

$27,000 Swim Pot

TORONTO (CP)—The Lake Ontario marathon swim committee said here its projected swim across the lake will start as soon as possible after Aug. 23 and will carry $27,000 in prize money.

RAIN BRINGS OPENING OF ISLAND FORESTS

Lifting of the forest closure was announced at noon today by Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston.

It means that the woods are open again to hikers and sportsmen and to Girl Guides and Boy Scouts who had postponed their summer camps.

Woods had been totally closed for the public and partially closed for loggers who may now resume operations full-swing.

Heavy rains overnight and this morning made the forests safe for travel.

Amy Nearing Goal In Game Swim Try

Weather, Tide Conditions Good For Californian's Strait Attempt

Amy Hiland was less than nine miles from Victoria at 1 o'clock this afternoon in her second attempt to swim from Port Angeles to Victoria.

Catching a strong, pushing flood-tide, Mrs. Hiland was making brisk progress past Race Rocks and was swimming under ideal conditions.

Mrs. Hiland, who was pulled out of the water less than two miles from Victoria, suffering from complete exhaustion and near-hysteria in her first try July 13, started today's swim from Ediz Hook at 5:38 a.m.

By 9:30 she was stroking through a moderate chop and had crossed the international boundary.

By 10:30, her 52-beat stroke had taken her nine miles out from her starting point on a slightly tacking course and she had been in the water four hours and 50 minutes.

HOURLY FEEDINGS

Mrs. Hiland was taking hourly feedings of a mixture comprising warm milk, Ovaltine, maple syrup and dextrose.

She started to receive the benefit of the flood tide at 10:45 and by 11:30 had swum 11 miles and was 7 1/2 miles in a direct line from Port Angeles.

By 12:30, the 1 1/2-knot flood tide was pushing her towards Victoria and she was going through a slight rip-tide off Race Rocks. In the time between 10 and 12:30 she had covered almost five miles.

Return to 1912 Hemline Dior's Latest Dictum

By MME. MONTAY ROBERTS

I have been asked to make comment on the latest creative creation of M. Christian Dior, the Parisian fashion designer with the flair for controversy.

M. Dior's latest, unveiled at Paris this week, is called the 1912 hemline, and is indeed just that. The same hemline, discreetly draping the feminine instep inches above the ground, which was in vogue in 1912.

Note that I said it was in vogue in 1912; I did not say it was popular.

And, after a brief survey of fashion-conscious women and merchandise managers of women's wear stores in Victoria, I believe I can safely say it won't be popular in 1956.

Victoria ladies with pretty legs like to display a reasonable portion of them.

Victoria women without pretty legs have long since given up. Dealers in fashionable attire for women say the 1912 hemline is simply another Dior dictate calculated to stir up a controversy.

"Much too extreme ever to reach here," said one of them. "In fact, I doubt if the style would catch on even at a New York showing."

I also interviewed a typical Victoria man on the street, and asked him what he thought of the lowered hemline.

He said he was very much in favor of it, but it turned out he didn't know what I meant by "hemline."

Britons Warned To Quit Egypt

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced she is moving land, sea and air force units to the eastern Mediterranean in the Suez Canal crisis and has advised British nationals in Egypt to get out of the country.

These stern moves were announced in quick succession as the Big Three foreign ministers completed a plan for internationalizing the Suez Canal, nationalized by Egypt.

United Press quoted "informed sources" as saying the plan includes an unwritten understanding Britain would be responsible for keeping the waterway open until international control begins.

Prime Minister Eden told a hushed House of Commons that reserve troops are being called up and naval, army and air force units are moving into the eastern Mediterranean "to deal with any situation that may arise."

The Queen tonight signed proclamation orders calling up specialist soldiers from the reserve for emergency duties in the Mediterranean.

War Minister Antony Head told the Commons the seriousness of the proclamation, is "something equivalent to general mobilization." But he added: "We are really using very large powers to obtain a very small complement (of troops) which we consider essential."

Shortly after Eden spoke in the House, the British foreign office announced that Britain is advising its own and Commonwealth nationals to quit Egypt and those due to return there to call off plans unless they have "compelling reasons."

A foreign office spokesman said British consuls in Egypt were asking British subjects to consider leaving in their own interests "while the situation is still quiet."

'Anything Could Happen...' Lloyd

The crisis developments came as U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Christian Pineau neared the end of their talks on a plan to internationalize control of the vital Suez waterway.

Lloyd told Commons "we are in broad agreement with our French and American allies on this matter."

"It is a very serious situation. Many British subjects are in Egypt. Many British ships are approaching the canal. It is a situation in which anything could happen..."

Lloyd said Britain is determined to be "absolutely firm" in its dispute with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"We feel that this great international waterway is not to be left at the mercy, caprices, or spleen or hatreds of one power or one man," he said.

In his opening address, Eden said the military moves serve as "a precautionary measure."

HOPES TO AVOID FORCE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government backs the principle of international control of the Suez Canal and hopes it can be done under United Nations auspices.

External Affairs Minister Pearson outlined that stand in the Commons Wednesday and followed it up with an intimation that the Western Big Three hope to settle the Egyptian crisis without use of force.

Mr. Pearson spoke in a one-day external affairs debate in which the fast-developing Suez question bulked large.

He said the government sup-

LAST SOLDIER DIES

Albert Woolson, 109-year-old lone survivor of Abe Lincoln's grand army of the republic, in the war between the states, died today at St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth, Minn. Woolson was a drummer boy in the army of the north during the war of 1861-65.

TOPS IN TEENS

Myrna Hunter Runs in Circles But Gets There Just the Same

A summertime feature, Teens in Circles, will seek to focus the spotlight on Victoria and district teenagers who are representative of the great majority of our fine young people.

One girl who "ran around in circles" still managed first-class honors at the end of her freshman year at Victoria College.

Myrna Hunter, 17, is next year's president of WUGS—the Women's Undergraduate Society—and was active in bowling, jazz and glee clubs last year. She also played basketball for the college women's team and edited the club's section of the Tower yearbook.

Towards the end of the year, her schedule became rather hectic, but, says Myrna, "I run around in circles all year. I'm used to it."

Although she admits she is not particularly efficient and gets "just as muddled as anyone," she maintains a high standard in her studies. Her average at Christmas was 85.5 per cent, and in June, 84 per cent. Her June marks were: physics, 86 per cent; French, 83; chemistry, 85; English, 84, and math, 82.

Myrna attended first year college on scholarships from the Canadian Women's Club and the IODE. For her freshman average, she won the Robert V. Anderson memorial scholarship.

To ensure high marks, Myrna plans to cut down activities next term.

"I think I'll cut out sports," she said. "I'm not really good at them anyway."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hunter, 363 Kinvier Street.

Jockey Jailed Five Years For Extortion

VANCOUVER (CP)—Roy Calvin Eustace, 28, former jockey from Torbay, Nfld., was sentenced Wednesday to five years imprisonment on a charge of attempting to extort $20,000 from Jack Diamond, Vancouver meat packer-sportsman.

The pre-sentence report shows you have had few advantages but you still knew what you were doing and understood it thoroughly," said Magistrate Oscar Orr in sentencing Eustace.

The opinion has been expressed that you would not have carried out your threats. That does not help the person threatened. I have to deal severely with you, not only as punishment but as an example to others."

Eustace was arrested after Diamond, co-operating with police, planted three dummy packages at designated spots in response to a series of telephone calls and letters threatening death to his family.

The last package, containing $2,000 in actual money, was found in Eustace's possession when the arrest was made.

ARENA CONTRACT AWARDED

SALMON ARM—Contract for the proposed Salmon Arm arena has been awarded Twin Cities Contracting Co. of Kamloops with a bid of $38,480, committee president R. L. Carter announced. The firm's bid was the only one received.

MOHAMMED MOSSADEGH

Ex-Premier Leaves Jail Saturday

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Former Iranian premier Dr. Mohammed Mossadeh will be released from prison Saturday, a spokesman of the Military Governor's Office said today.

The spokesman said in an interview that Mossadeh was today told to "pack up" his belongings—mainly some 200 medical and legal books—crowding his small cell in Ghassehr Barracks in North Tehran. Mossadeh was sentenced Dec. 21, 1953, to three years solitary confinement after conviction by a military court on 13 charges of attempting to overthrow the Shah's regime and illegally dissolving parliament. Time served awaiting trial counted toward his sentence.

2-Pound Bullhead Wins Fish Derby

More than 500 youngsters and spectators turned out to city playground's annual fishing derby off the breakwater Wednesday afternoon—but only nine fish were caught.

Top winner was Guy Price, who pulled in a two-pound bullhead, to win first prize of a split-cane rod and case. Other winners were Roger Penner, 11, and Michael Harrison, 10, who each received prizes of a reel and line.

Dr. Carl Clifford of the provincial museum of natural history described the winning fish as an unusually large fish. Saltwater bullheads are a variety of sculpin, described as "marine bullheads" to distinguish them from the freshwater catfish, also called a bullhead.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT CHECKED BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Embassy in Cairo has been asked to report on the number of Canadian citizens in Egypt, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He added, however, that he hopes the request will not indicate there is "any special crisis or emergency" in that country.

The minister said he has had no confirmation that Britain has issued a warning to its citizens to leave Egypt, but Canada is making inquiries about that.

orizing the minister of transport to requisition any passenger ships needed for sudden troop movements. The transport ministry would neither confirm nor deny the reports, but British troops at home and in the Mediterranean area already have been alerted for quick action in case of violence in the Suez.

U.S. ON FRINGE

Strong demands for military action to keep the Suez Canal open have been made in London and Paris since Nasser announced last week Egypt was nationalizing the strategic waterway. But expectations of military action declined in the British capital since U. S. State Secretary Dulles arrived. He is reported to have said the United States would not join in.

Diplomatic experts worked through the night in London preparing the draft of the proposal for an international conference on the Suez to which the countries using the canal most would be invited, along with Egypt and the Soviet Union.

Under the plan, the Western Big Three would call a conference of interested countries to be held within a few weeks, perhaps in London.

With the invitation would go a proposal for what French informants described as an international organization to "manage" the canal. British sources said the proposed organization would "control or supervise" the vital 103-mile waterway.

CAIRO SILENT

There was no official comment from Cairo on the Big Three's plan. But observers in the Egyptian capital were convinced President Nasser would reject any form of international control which would appear to infringe on Egyptian sovereignty.

These sources said Nasser could not afford to appear to yield to Western pressure after skyrocketing his prestige in the Arab world by announcing the nationalization of the Suez Canal Company.

Some observers in Cairo believed, however, that Nasser might accept an expansion of the nine-power international Convention of 1888 which guarantees freedom of all shipping through the canal.

Boys who take part in the August 15 Navy Day, sailor-for-a-day cruise aboard RCN warships will be treated to a live ammunition shoot by some of the short-range weapons aboard the ships.

Naval officials thought heavy calibre guns would not be fired while the youngsters were aboard due to shock of the heavy blasts.

Boys aged 10 to 16 have almost completed the Times-sponsored complement of 700, but there are still some vacancies for youngsters who make fast application for the trip.

The attached coupon must be used, but applicants do not need to be Victoria residents nor do they have to be Times subscribers.

All that is necessary is to clip the coupon, fill in name, age, address, a parent's signature and the signature of any sailor of the RCN. Mail or deliver the completed coupon, addressed to "Sailor-for-a-Day, c/o The Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria.

Cruise ships, including a cruiser, destroyers, frigates and minesweepers, will leave Ogden Point Outer Wharf at 11.30 a.m. on Navy Day. Lists of successful applicants and boarding instructions will be published in the Times.

Opposition Blocks Longer Sitting Move

(From Times News Services)

Opposition members Wednesday night blocked a move by Finance Minister Harris to have the House sit past its 10 p.m. adjournment hour to speed prorogation.

Mr. Harris, government leader in the House, made his request after members had spent the day discussing the estimates of the external affairs department. He said the House would have to start sitting past 10 p.m. if it wanted to prorogue by Aug. 11.

A. M. Nicholson (CCF-Mackenzie) said there had been agreement among the various parties to attempt to complete consideration Wednesday night.

of the external affairs estimates. But he said Liberal members had made so many speeches that many members of his party had been unable to speak.

Wednesday was the 141st sitting day of the session—making it the longest since 1907-08, which lasted 148 days.

Next Thursday, Aug. 9, it will match the 148-day duration of the session of 1907-08. It is possible that this will be the longest session in Canadian history.

Fishermen to Get Jobless Benefits

The government served notice Wednesday of legislation to make Canada's 72,000 employed and self-employed fishermen eligible for unemployment insurance.

Labor Minister Gregg placed a resolution on the order paper, preceding introduction of a bill which would authorize fishermen to be brought under the terms of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The measure sought for years by members from the Maritimes and British Columbia, would include fishermen employed by others, those self-employed and those working on shares.

The resolution states fishermen eligible would include "persons engaged in fishing not withstanding that they are not employees of other persons..." The measure also would designate as an employer "any person with whom the fisherman enters into contractual or other commercial relationship in respect of his occupation as a fisherman..."

Mr. Gregg told the Commons in June, 1955, that about 6,000 fishermen are employed by others and that some 66,000 are self-employed.

The step was the first move by the government to extend provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act to self-employed Canadians. It is expected to result in demands for similar coverage for other self-employed persons, such as farmers and loggers.

Essentials of Stalinism Remain — Pearson

General agreement among all parties on Canadian foreign policy emerged Wednesday from the first external affairs debate at this session.

The question uppermost in members' minds was the meaning of new Russian tactics and, generally speaking, their reaction was: Beware of Soviet smiles.

Leading off the debate, External Affairs Minister Pearson said the vital question is whether Moscow is still willing and anxious to assist any and every foreign Communist party in its revolutionary plans in its determination to overthrow free parliamentary government. He said:

"The test of Soviet sincerity is for them to demonstrate that they are not concerned now with international revolution... We can insist as a test of good faith that they show that in fact they are keeping out of our domestic affairs."

"We have no assurance on this score in this country or in other countries. Nor have we any reason to believe... that they have abandoned or weakened in any respect what has been for some years now the primary objective of Soviet policy—the weakening and destruction of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Mr. Pearson said the strength and power of Russia under its new leaders has not been affected by the "de-Stalinization" of the regime.

"In fact, while Stalin has been repudiated, the essentials of Stalinism remain," he said.

The new Russian system was the new colonialism, far more terrible, reactionary and widespread than any form of colonial rule in history. The Communist parties in non-Communist states were recovering from the shock of the overthrow of "their great god Stalin" and rallying with traditional submission to their roles as agents of the Kremlin.

Mr. Pearson said that since the death of Stalin the Soviet government has started to eliminate some of the more objectionable features of its foreign and domestic policies.

But the process of relaxation in Russia and the satellites, if permitted to gain momentum, would not lead to parliamentary democracy or to any kind of democracy.

The recent Commonwealth prime ministers' conference at London might have broken up if some of the problems within the Commonwealth had been raised, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday night.

He said that some of the Commonwealth's "most acute problems" were not discussed. That was probably a good thing because they might have broken up the meeting.

Mr. Pearson spoke in an external affairs debate in reply to a statement by Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) that Canada, represented by Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mr. Pearson, had fallen far short of contributing to the success of the London meeting.

FLOWERS TO DECK CITY'S FLOAT

Tissue paper hankies are being converted into peony-like flowers by Girl Guides of East District (Gonzales, Oak Bay, Cadboro Bay), for use on city float which will carry Miss Victoria in PNE parade at Vancouver. Girls have made over 900; about 2,500 are required to cover float. Real blooms were

Slain Man's Widow Held on Gun Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — The pretty young widow of a man shot to death in Edmonton was committed for trial here Wednesday on a charge of "unlawfully carrying a pistol for purposes dangerous to the public peace."

Kenneth Neil Bird testified Canada, represented by Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mr. Pearson, had fallen far short of contributing to the success of the London meeting.

Mrs. Mary Eleanor Lloyd, 29, pointed a gun "directly between my eyes" and demanded to know where her husband was. Mrs. Lloyd, along with Stan-

Capitalism Saved By Socialists?

British Labor MP Makes Claim Before National CCF Convention

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Labor member of the British Parliament said Wednesday that capitalism itself has been saved by the socialists of the world.

Richard Crossman told the national CCF convention it was the Labor and Social Democratic parties which had forced capitalism to provide an adequate standard of living and the purchasing power to workers necessary to keep the capitalist economic machine working.

Explaining the recent "rethinking" by Social Democrats everywhere, he said old socialist ideas "sprang out of the slum" of depression. They were impregnated with the belief in the inevitable collapse of capitalism.

"But capitalism is not going to collapse because through the working of democracy the free democratic trade unions and political parties have been able the respect for human dignity that is fundamental to all socialist thinking." It says Canada's present immigration policy "meets the demand of capitalist industry for cheap, non-union labor brought in to do work spurned by the Canadian labor force."

The Modest Government

EVERY HOUSEHOLD IN BRITISH Columbia has recently received the latest testament of the Bennett Government. The handsome and expensive booklet entitled "Four years of Progress with Social Credit in British Columbia" must have cost a pretty penny to print and distribute through the mails. The public is not told where the money came from but this is no time for economy in the management of campaign funds when Mr. Bennett evidently intends to call an early election.

In a foreword to this campaign document Mr. Bennett says he has "no desire to make boasts about the progress of British Columbia." The booklet, however, contains nothing but boasts, some justified, some quite untrue.

No one can deny that during the four years of Mr. Bennett's Government, beginning in August, 1952, British Columbia has enjoyed unprecedented prosperity. All this, the booklet intimates, is mainly the result of the Government's inspired policies and wise management. It is mere coincidence, apparently, that the nation as a whole has also enjoyed the great boom.

No one can deny that the Bennett Government has done many good things. It was able to do them because the nation (managed by a Federal Government which Mr. Bennett is always attacking) has been prosperous and the resulting provincial revenues extraordinarily high. If the new booklet had stuck to these facts without exaggeration it would be much more convincing than it is when it contains many unjustified boasts and some plain distortions.

Among the eleven major achievements of the Government listed in the booklet two are particularly interesting. We are told that "the public debt has been reduced" and "taxes have been lowered."

As everyone knows, Mr. Bennett has reduced the direct provincial debt with one hand and raised the indirect debt with the other. All the reductions in the direct debt are cited in the booklet. There is no mention of the huge borrowings for the P.G.E. Railway, for toll bridges, for the Power Commission, for various school boards, all of them underwritten by the provincial treasury and all of them, in interest and capital repayment, chargeable to the people.

When the booklet boasts that "taxes have been lowered" it lists a series of minor reductions like the removal of the sales tax on dollar meals and children's clothing, the reduced automobile license and amusement tax. But it forgets that the sales tax, affecting most merchandise, has been raised from 3 to 5 per cent. It does not boast of the undoubted fact that British Columbia is the highest-taxed area in Canada and perhaps in America.

The art of distortion achieves something of a masterpiece in the statement that "Social Credit leads the way. It not only reduces taxes—it helps you pay them." It will help you pay them by contributing from $25 to $30 a year to the home owner's municipal taxes.

The booklet fails to observe that the money thus distributed by the Government must come from the people in the first place. Though it will be raised, the booklet says, out of revenue from natural resources, does anyone suppose that the public will not pay it, indirectly, in the price of goods made from these resources?

No government can help the public to pay taxes because no government has any money that it does not first collect from the public. When the Government contributes toward municipal taxes it helps the home owner, as a home owner. It takes the necessary money from him, as a taxpayer, out of another pocket.

One final item in the long catalogue of Social Credit achievement blandly assures us that the Bennett Government has provided "hospitalization for all." The hospital insurance scheme actually was launched by Mr. Byron Johnson and his coalition Government. But this is no time for such nice quibbles. Mr. Bennett is preparing for an election before the Summers case can reach trial.

More and Faster

THE QUESTION OF SPACE FOR air traffic is already receiving the worried attention of aviation experts. Although the vault of the heavens appears unlimited to the groundling, the beginnings of overcrowding are now being felt in the major traffic lanes.

Such tragic occurrences as the recent collision of passenger planes over Arizona emphasizes that the travelled air routes are none too spacious. The consequences of a crash are too disastrous to risk even occasional mishaps.

Every indication is that air travel will multiply. Although experts predict that long-distance aircraft will increase in size and range, reducing, for instance, the number of scheduled flights needed for trans-Atlantic traffic, there will be an enormous increase in the number of private planes and the volume of transport within national borders.

The recent conference of the International Civil Aviation Organization held in Caracas looked 20 years into the future and predicted interhemispheric transportation in mammoth aircraft at speeds in the neighborhood of 1,000 miles an hour.

The prospect is that greater regimentation as to courses and altitudes will have to be imposed, the pilot will lose a good deal of his freedom of action, the great commercial air lanes will become as strictly controlled as the land routes below them.

The times in which we live will be looked back on as days of wild pioneering, and the air age into which two world wars precipitated us will have become tamed.

G.B.S. — Controversy for Centenary

THE CENTENARY OF GEORGE Bernard Shaw's birth—July 26—has been marked by a challenge to his will. Shaw left more than £100,000 for an investigation of one of his eccentric projects, the revision of the alphabet to expand it to 40 letters.

Doubts about the validity of the playwright's alphabetic bequest have led the British public trustees to seek a court decision on the question.

The dead Shaw remains a controversial subject in the news as the living Shaw so delighted to be.

Yet the Shaw personality, which seemed often to repel rather than attract, has not proved sufficient a magnet to maintain the popularity of a Shavian shrine at Ayot St. Lawrence, his home.

For a time a special bus served pilgrims who wished to visit Ayot as a type of national monument. After a brief flurry, patronage of the service dwindled to a point where the special bus could no longer be justified.

Yet if there is a waning of enthusiasm for this type of tribute to the brilliant Dubliner, his centenary will not go unobserved in Britain. Apart from dispute over his will, he will remain in the public eye through the production of "Fanny's First Play" during the Edinburgh festival.

And, as United States writers have pointed out, his work enjoys popularity in a new medium, the musical, as "My Fair Lady," most of the text of which is derived from "Pygmalion," catches the ear of an eager public.

The shade of G. B. S. may be deriving some satisfaction from "Fanny" and "My Fair Lady," yet it must be irritated beyond measure on the will question—not because of the controversy, but because Shaw isn't there to take part in it.

Oink! Oink!

CANADIAN FARMERS ARE REPORTED to be considering a new breed of hogs known as the Lacombe. It has several attractive features, including a greater birth weight and rapid growth during the first few weeks of life.

But one detail is expected to cause criticism. Unlike the perky ears of the familiar Yorkshire, the Lacombe dangles floppy, Spaniel-like appendages which detract from the trim appearance favored by Canadian farmers.

This feature is not enough in itself to deter prospective breeders, perhaps, but no matter how the bacon is improved the public will cling to its own notions of how a pig should look. Having changed the ears, the next move of the breeders may be to take the twist out of the porker's tail. No matter what other advantages may be lost, the line should be drawn at this point.

Hundreds of nursery books, nursery rhymes and nursery games depend for their major attraction on the curliness of pigs' tails. To alter such an inherited characteristic would be to tamper with the heritage of generations of children whose stories of Porky Pig and other porcine heroes are part of the wealth of childhood.

Let's get it straight: the curl must stay.

Those Scraps of Paper

THAT must have been a lively and inspiring interview between Field Marshal Montgomery and Premier Bennett in Victoria not long ago. According to Mr. Bennett, the great British soldier asked the meaning of Social Credit. Mr. Bennett could hardly answer that question specifically, since every Social Crediter has a different version of his theory; and, besides, Mr. Bennett doesn't believe in Social Credit as a theory, only as a label.

Hutchison

Just the same, pinned down by Field Marshal Montgomery, Mr. Bennett managed to produce an answer of sorts so convincing, so simple and so politically attractive that he remembered it word for word and gave it out to the newspapers the other day.

THE Field Marshal could have no trouble understanding this answer, for it was framed in military terms. Social Credit, in brief, turns out to be nothing more or less than Montgomery's strategy of war applied to government. By direct route, with no delays, detours or reverses, Social Credit marches irresistibly from El Alamein to Victoria.

Or, as Mr. Bennett puts it, Social Credit "makes an inventory of its manpower and supplies, plans accordingly and goes ahead regardless of cost."

Part of this statement has the added advantage of being true. The Bennett Government certainly goes ahead regardless of cost. Social Credit does not make an inventory of the nation's supplies and manpower.

Mr. Bennett may have sufficient supplies and manpower for his purposes in British Columbia, though he has been compelled to search the nation for various technicians and the New York market for borrowed money (which is not debt, of course). But Social Credit takes little or no account of the nation's total manpower or supplies.

It assumes that the nation, with its resources of both definitely limited, can do virtually anything. It thinks the nation is growing too slowly and building too little at a time when it is growing faster than any Western nation, building more and in order to do it, is borrowing gigantically from its American neighbor. Since many supplies are still inadequate it is confronting a new spasm of inflation. If anyone is making an inventory of this process it certainly is not Mr. Bennett or Social Credit.

However, that is not the most interesting aspect of Mr. Bennett's friendly lecture to Field Marshal Montgomery. The Premier says: "Cost is never an obstacle in wartime. Operations are planned and executed regardless of expense. We believe in employing those same bold, sweeping tactics in peacetime. We are not held back by scraps of paper."

There you have Mr. Bennett's philosophy distilled into one vivid paragraph. And it would be difficult to imagine any statement more misleading and dangerous.

Mr. Bennett holds, in brief, that we can do anything in peacetime that we can do in war. He does not bother to note the consequences of what we do in war and what the same methods would involve in peace.

In war the people will pay almost any amount of taxes to assure their survival. In war they will accept rationing, government control of prices and wages, even conscription of manpower and a society completely controlled by the state. All these things are necessary in war if the nation's resources are to be totally mobilized for a single purpose.

In peace the people will not pay wartime taxes. They will not accept rationing, government controls or conscription, for the reason that they don't agree on any single purpose. They are not united by peril. They are not inspired to sacrifice. If the nation were to follow the "bold, sweeping tactics" of war in peacetime, as Mr. Bennett proposes, all the restrictions, regulations, taxes and sacrifices of wartime would be required. But that would not be all.

What was the financial result of the last war, as of all wars? It was a huge inflation. Prices are twice as high today as they were before the war. The value of every man's fixed savings, such as his life insurance, has been cut in half. This was a small price to pay for victory and an unavoidable price. But most people are not anxious to pay it again, every twenty years or so, under a Social Credit policy which proposes to apply wartime methods to peace.

A DAY or so after he had revealed his conversation with Field Marshal Montgomery Mr. Bennett added another revelation, equally interesting. He announced that the Federal Government was penalizing the Government of British Columbia by keeping up interest rates and forcing the province to pay too much for its huge new borrowings (which would be debt anywhere else but are never debt, you understand, in British Columbia).

The purpose of higher interest rates is to damp down the fires of inflation and to hold capital expenditure, if possible, within the inventory of our actual manpower and supplies.

The British Columbia Government, caring nothing for any inventory, is outraged by any measure against inflation.

THE final item in this catalogue of irony is the fact that Mr. Bennett would have been compelled to pay still more for his money in New York if the Federal Government had followed his earlier advice and reduced the value of the Canadian dollar to 90 per cent of the American dollar. The Federal Government can be attacked for many things but it has at least one virtue. It refuses to follow the financial advice of Mr. Bennett.

It knows that those "scraps of paper" happen to represent the value of every dollar in the Canadian bank account, his bonds, life insurance and other fixed savings.

As Our Readers See It Pensioners and Places

Recently I wrote to Prime Minister St. Laurent urging consideration of higher payments to our Old Age Pensioners to help them overcome the depreciation of their purchasing power due to rising living costs and the constant round of wage increases gained by labor.

I also asked that consideration be given to the plan to allow recipients of Canadian pensions to live anywhere they pleased within the Commonwealth, or among allies, and still collect their allowances—a policy which, I believe, is permitted both by Britain and the United States. This would not entail any increased expense to Canada.

I wrote a similar letter to Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin, to whom my former letter was turned over. T. FOX-DECENT, 2551 Florence street.

Mr. Martin's reply follows: Thank you for your further letter of June 22 regarding the possibility of payment of Old Age Security pension outside Canada.

You suggest that those pensioners who might live elsewhere in the British Commonwealth might receive such pension payments. You further suggest that while a naturalized Canadian could not expect to receive such benefits outside Canada, a native-born Canadian or a citizen of some other country in the Commonwealth could receive such benefits even though he had left Canada.

I fear that this would introduce distinctions in the Old Age Security legislation that would not be acceptable to Canadians generally. The result would be that if a pensioner left to live in New Zealand, for example, he would continue to receive pension, whereas if he left Canada to live elsewhere, for example, he would not so benefit.

The distinction you suggest between native-born Canadians and naturalized Canadians seems to me a very undesirable one. The legislation providing Old Age Security pension, adopted after long consideration and full debate, is of universal character. It makes no distinction whatever among Canadians, requiring only that they be seventy years of age or more and that they have the required residence in this country.

It is not based upon citizenship in any way. One need neither be a native-born nor a naturalized Canadian in order to qualify for this pension. The universal character of the pension is of very considerable appeal to the Canadian people. To introduce distinctions among Canadian residents along the lines that you have suggested would be, I am convinced, unwise.

PAUL MARTIN, Minister of National Health and Welfare.

Motorboats and the Law

PROSECUTION of a speedboat owner has signalled the opening in Ottawa of the RCMP's campaign for safety on the waters. This "marine hot-rodder" put an excursion boat off course in the Ottawa River by circling it at high speed, endangering the passengers.

Judging by reports of police activity on Lakes Erie and Ontario, many small boat owners are guilty of carelessness, recklessness and neglect of regulations. It is high time they were checked up, for they cause the majority of accidents on the lakes and rivers, often with fatal results.

The operation of pleasure craft is governed by the Canada Shipping Act and regulations made by the Department of Transport through the Nautical Division of its Marine Services and the Board of Steamship Inspection.

Licences—obtainable without charge from a customs office—are required for boats fitted temporarily or permanently with motors of 10 h.p. or more, and may be useful to any boat owner in case of accident or theft.

All motorboats must have life-saving and firefighting equipment, prescribed according to their size. Since some unreliable equipment is on sale, buyers should look for the stamps of approval of the Board of Steamship Inspection and the Board of Fire Underwriters.

The Rules of the Road tell what navigation lights to show, what sound signals to make in given conditions, how to overtake and pass another vessel, and who has the right of way. The Navigation Regulations are intended to prevent reckless operation of motorboats.

Finally, there are regulations governing regattas and marine parades. In Toronto, the Harbor Commission has for 10 years required both boat licences and driver permits. It sets written and practical tests. Under amending legislation, the federal government now proposes to develop a system of licensing for motorboat operators.

Driver licensing will ensure familiarity with the rules of marine safety and traffic. These rules, as discussed in "Safety-Afloat," a useful booklet published by the transport department.

How to Counter Nasser

By WALTER LIPPMAN, From Washington

THE timetable indicates that President Nasser has for some time had it in his mind that he might seize the Suez Canal, and that a plan for doing it had almost certainly been prepared before the recent crisis over the Aswan Dam.

Only about a week elapsed between Mr. Dulles' interview with the Egyptian ambassador, withdrawing the offer to help finance the dam, and the seizure of the canal. It is hard to believe that the seizure, which required a series of co-ordinated actions, was improvised suddenly in a few days. So many Egyptian officials had to do so many different things so quickly that there must have existed a carefully prepared plan.

Indeed, it now seems very probable that when President Nasser sent his ambassador in Washington to the state department to accept the previous offer to help finance the dam, he already knew that London and Washington had decided to withdraw the offer.

It has been common knowledge for some weeks that Congress was opposed, that London had concluded that Nasser was unappeasable, and that Washington was coming around to the same view. Nasser knew also that he had no alternative offer from the Soviet government, and that he was, therefore, approaching a dangerous crisis in his affairs.

Prestige High

From the autumn of last year to the late spring of this year, his prestige at home and in the Arab world was very great, in the main because he seemed to have both sides in the cold war bidding for his favor.

The symbol of that favor was the underwriting of the dam at Aswan, and once Nasser realized that there might be no bidders, his position at home and in the Arab world was in desperate danger. It was then, it would seem, that he made ready to cover the failure of the Aswan Dam project by precipitating an international crisis over the Suez Canal.

This view is supported, it seems to me, by the sheer demagoguery of his claim that by nationalizing the Suez Canal, the Egyptian government is now able to build the dam without foreign aid.

The profits of the Suez Canal Company, even if all of them were available to the Egyptian government, fall far short of what would be needed each year for the dam. They could not all be available if the Egyptian government were to make good its promise to buy out the shareholders in the Suez company.

Western Sanctions

Furthermore, all this does not take into account the effect upon the Egyptian financial economy of sanctions which may be taken by the Western powers.

Nationalization of the Suez Canal is not really a means to the building of the Aswan Dam. It is, rather, a political substitute for the Aswan Dam, one which not only maintains and even augments Nasser's prestige, but one which will give him strong new bargaining power.

With physical control of the operation of the canal, he is in a position to exert pressure on the countries that use the canal. Even if he adheres to his promise not to raise the toll rate, he will control the administration, and will be able to use his administrative powers for his political purposes.

The Western nations, in taking their decisions, will have to assume that the Suez Canal is not the only trump which Nasser had up his sleeve. In all probability the plan for the seizure of the Canal is only one in a series of plans prepared by Nasser and the revolutionary leaders of the Arab world. All of them, we must suppose, are aimed at the liquidation of Western power and influence in North Africa and the Middle East.

There would seem to be three lines of policy open to the West. One is to accept the seizure of the Canal, and to hope that Nasser will be quiet for a while.

A second is to resist him with juridical and economic sanctions designed to bring about his downfall.

A third is to resist him with sanctions designed to bring about a negotiated settlement in which the international character of the Canal would be recognized.

The first course, acceptance of the seizure, is really impossible in that it would invite, indeed provoke, widespread imitation of Nasser's triumph in humiliating the West. We would have to expect to see the nationalization of pipe lines, oil fields, and installations all over the Middle East.

Likely Profits

Nasser would not only get the prestige and the profits of his coup but he would have good reason for believing that it is now safe to carry out the other strokes to eliminate the West.

Both the other courses call for the use of sanctions—whether the aim be to overthrow Nasser or to compel him to negotiate. The sovereign rule about sanctions—which the experience of a generation has taught us—is that they must not be used at all unless they are used deliberately and resolutely.

There is no use toying with sanctions, no use dabbling with them. Sanctions are not war. But sanctions have the same objective as war, and they should be taken as seriously.

This would lead one to think, it seems to me, that since it is necessary to resist Nasser, the object of the sanctions should not be the recovery of the Western position in the Suez Company but an international regime for the Canal, preferably under the aegis of the United Nations. (Cpy. 1956, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

NOT HOOKED
Angling is the muted explosion of a man's frustrations. It allows him to be his own, rugged, boyish, repulsive self. Yet it's a sport, I feel, women approve of since they never quite take it seriously.
—Ted Jones, on the BBC.

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD

The nature of political problems, especially problems of government, does not greatly alter. The core is the same, the statesman is always weighing risk against risk, advantage against disadvantage, the long-term gain against the short-term gain, in any given situation. And he is doing this whether he has an immense civil service at his disposal and an empire to consider, or whether he has nothing but a handful of priests and housecarls to help him and 100 square miles to govern; whether he has all the advantages of modern transport and communications or simply horses and runners at his command. The inner tensions, the core of the matter, change little.

Miss C. V. Wedgwood, CBE, speaking on the first volume of Sir Winston Churchill's "History of the English-Speaking Peoples."

The Shabby House

THE Shabby house is on a shabby street far removed from the flowery baskets and the regular track of the tallies.

It's cinnamon-colored and sagging a bit, and I noticed it first on a hot, hot day last summer. Two girls in their early teens were standing on the unkempt grass beside the rickety steps, and yelling at one another, virago-fashion, with arms akimbo.

The sight of physical anger always makes me feel sick, especially when it's women with—their tempers out of control, but I took in as many details as I could while I hurried by. I noticed the straggly grass, the lidless garbage can half-hidden behind a decrepit trellis. I noticed the broken window stuffed up with yellowed newspaper, and the grimy curtains that looked as if they hadn't been washed for months.

Ruth

The two girls were about as unlike as they could be. The dark-haired one was plump and busy, and quite seductive in an over-ripe kind of way. I mentally jotted down the very dangly earrings, the toenails that were crimson, edged with black, the high-heeled white sandals that could have done with a thorough cleaning.

The other girl was fair and thin with a scrawny little chest, and a prim and pinched-up face.

"I hate you," yelled the dark girl. "Always telling tales and getting people into trouble."

"You'd better not say you hate me."

"shrieked the fair child with a quiver of tears in her voice. 'I'm the only one in the block you haven't quarreled with. If you fight with me, you won't have anyone left.'"

"I don't care," screamed the dark girl. "I hate you. I hate you all. I hate the whole world if you want to know."

And that's where I passed out of earshot, feeling dreadful because, in a city, you can't interfere, and there's really nothing you can do. In a small town it's different. There isn't the impersonality of the city.

But somehow I've never been able to forget them or the feeling of hatred and unhappiness in the air on that hot summer afternoon.

The next time I noticed the house, really noticed it, was on a lovely day this spring. A purple lilac was blooming by the porch and the whole house had a different sort of air, though I didn't register any actual details.

A boy and girl were sitting on the steps. A thoroughly nice boy and girl, I'd say. They were talking quietly and looking at one another in the way the young do when they're hopelessly in love.

It was the contrast in atmosphere that impressed me most—the change from hatred to love.

But how much lies in my imagination, I don't know.

That's the tantalizing part of living in a city. You never really know the true story. You seldom hear the end.

But both those incidents could have been scenes in a movie, a Marry-ish movie, about quite ordinary people.

They're universal and the stuff of life.

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

Recently, in Los Angeles, the County Probation Officer, Karl Holton, said that in his city there is a "hard core of problem families" (all well-known to welfare workers), people who are unable to take care of themselves, and hence must always be causing trouble for the social workers.

Mr. Holton said that there is a critical need for more family counseling. Unless the probation officer can do something constructive about these problem people he cannot cut down on the amount of crime, and he cannot save the public money. Mr. Holton told some 200 leaders in various welfare fields that two of the greatest problems that face him are a lack of counseling service for 21,000 delinquents who, if locked up, would terribly overcrowd our jails and prisons. As he said, nowadays every probation officer has a "case load" of problem persons so much larger than he can attend to, that it is impossible for him to give counseling to the people who are desperately in need of help. One difficulty is that probation officers cannot get proper psychiatric help for many of the mentally muddled persons who have been put under their care.

THE PREGNANT WOMAN WITH HEART DISEASE

According to my old friend, Dr. C. Sidney Burwell, of Harvard, who for much of a long life has made a special study of heart disease in pregnant women, in almost all instances she can be carried through successfully, and she can have her baby. The old idea that heart disease usually calls for an early termination of a pregnancy is generally untrue. In a recent report, Dr. Burwell and his associates said that in the Boston Lying-in Hospital about half of the pregnant women found there with heart disease had never known they had any trouble with their heart. They had never been to a doctor. Some 88 per cent had the scars of rheumatic heart disease, and in two-thirds of these cases the trouble was due to a narrowing of the very important mitral valve. In one in 10 cases the heart disease was congenital in origin.

The reason why doctors worry about heart trouble in a woman who wants a baby is that pregnancy puts added strain on her body. It increases, by about 40 per cent, the amount of blood that has to be pumped each day. Occasionally, with pregnancy, there may come a flare-up of the old infection of the heart valves. Naturally, the woman with heart disease often needs extra care during her pregnancy. She may get an anemia that has to be corrected.

Occasionally, when the heart fails a bit, the woman has to be bled. Dr. Burwell said that his 300 patients had had 375 pregnancies, with only three fatalities. This certainly is a wonderful record. Dr. Burwell rarely advises a therapeutic abortion, or early termination of the pregnancy. Also, he rarely resorts to cesarean section.

OPERATIONS ON THE HEART

At the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, Dr. B. L. Brofman reported that in the last 37 cases in which he and his group operated on the heart of a man who had suffered a coronary thrombosis they had not lost a single case. This report of success with the Beck operation is interesting for two reasons. One is that it is good to know that something can be done for those persons who, after a heart attack suffer much from pain and disability, and it is good to know that commonly a man who has had a heart attack can come through a severe operation on his heart. This means that many persons with a bad heart need not be too fearful when they are forced to have an operation on gallstones, or a cancer.

Naturally, not all the persons who have had a heart attack can stand an operation. Everything depends on what the physicians call their "cardiac reserve." To illustrate: Some men, after a coronary thrombosis, can walk along the street about as rapidly as they did before, without much shortness of breath, and without pain. A less fortunate man, with a poor cardiac reserve, will get short of breath and may get pain on walking slowly, or going up stairs, or even as he sits quietly in his chair at home. He may get distress if he tries to lie flat at night. In such case, we physicians say that the man's rope is short, and this is far more significant for his future than is the appearance of his electrocardiograms.

Often in these cases a good heart specialist hardly looks at the electrocardiograms. What he wants to know is how far the man can walk without getting pain or distress. The heart is a pump, and one can judge best of its efficiency by finding out how well and comfortably it pumps when put under strain.

$1 MILLION MUSEUM CENTENARY PROJECT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver centennial committee will be asked to approve a $1,000,000 museum to house city archives and the RCMP Arctic patrol vessel St. Roch as its official project in the 1958 B.C. celebrations.

A special group headed by Ald. George Cunningham reported to the board of administration Wednesday that it recommends approval in principle of the scheme.

The city was asked to set aside $300,000 towards building costs and to earmark a further $240,000 available as a provincial government grant.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Now's Best Season For Shrub Cuttings

Somewhere between mid-July and the end of August lies the best period to propagate shrubs from cuttings.

Which week it will be is not definite because the seasons vary with growth and ripening of wood and shrub varieties with them. It is always a gamble, even for those whose livelihood depends on the propagation of plants, with every cutting rooting one season and few the next.

There are no rules, charts, nor mathematical tables for the gardener to follow, although there is an instinct which develops if cuttings are taken over a period of years. It is something which cannot be reduced to words.

Undoubtedly, the home gardener has the advantage because he needs but a few cuttings and therefore can give individual attention and suitable conditions to each. He can also take a few cuttings each week and thus be sure one batch will take. There is an approximate way of telling when growths are ready to make cuttings, although it does not indicate they will root.

A selected shoot is bent around the finger until U-shaped. If it is not ripe it will bend easily with no resistance; if too ripe it will break. The near perfect condition is when it is stiff enough to fracture without parting.

This is far from infallible, but it has been a guide for many beginners.

Boy, 11, Saved By Chum When Boat Capsizes

SIDNEY—An 11-year-old yachtsman escaped with a dunking Wednesday when his 13-foot sailboat capsized in Shoal Harbor.

Mark Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dickinson, was rescued by his chum, Dickie Gile, 10, who was sailing alongside.

The mishap occurred when a sudden gust of wind tipped over Mark's Penguin-class craft, throwing him into the water.

Dickie, who was about 30 feet away, skillfully manoeuvred his Penguin into the wind and reached his friend quickly. The boats were about half a mile from shore at the time.

The accident was witnessed by Mrs. Dickinson, operator with her husband of the Van Isle Marina. Mr. Dickinson rushed out to the boats and brought the boys back in a power boat.

"ON THE AIR"

For the G.F. I felt a very great pity. Because, as chairman of a Publicity Committee:

Part of her job was to "go on the air." And drag 5 other nice ladies there. Well—the nite before, she couldn't sleep. She must have counted a million sheep.

So she got up and walked the floor.

Even did her washing in her Thor.

Then came the morn, to the Station she went.

All haggard & worn & her eyes of cement.

The ladies sat, all full of mis-giving.

The Announcer was full of the joy of living.

"Twas a give-away show... Jarvex & prizes.

And where even our competition advertised.

Adds and laughter & a pound of free tea.

The G.F. was shaking... holding each knee.

Then there she was... in front of the "mike."

She felt she'd been socked with a marlin-spike.

She didn't collapse, his ad-libs she met.

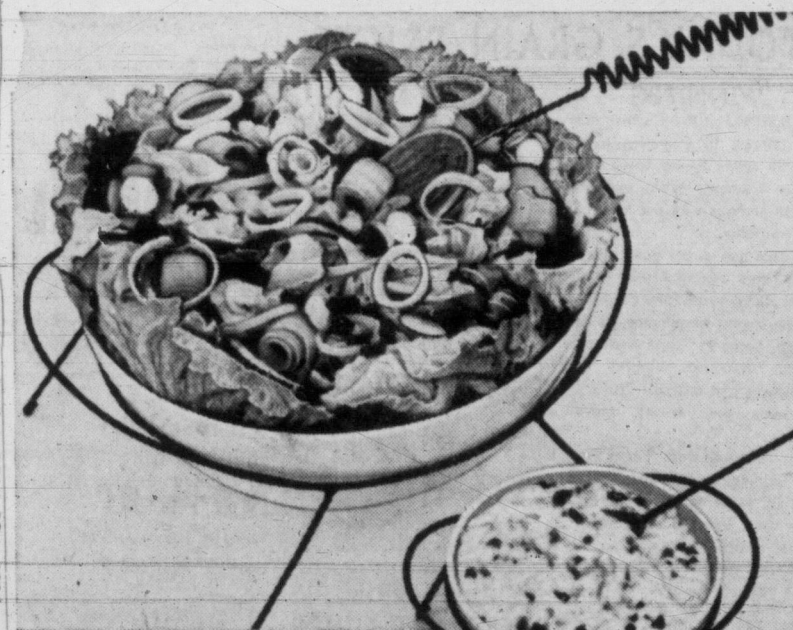

Then returned to her seat, all soaking wet.

When it was over... and she that all clinched.

She went out to the car... and FOUND SHE WAS PINCHED.

HARRY'S WORRIED, BUT NOT DON

Coach Harry Wipperfurth, left, wears a pained expression Wednesday night after being banished to the paying seats by the referee during the Nanaimo-Victoria Intercity Lacrosse League game. Harry had

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

From here and there, about what-not!
The Longacres Mile goes Aug. 26 at Seattle and Canadian colors will be in the forefront. . . . Four runners have been nominated from Alberta Ranches . . . they are Peter Lane, Prefect 11, Fraser Valley and Mr. John D. . . . the Vancouver contingent is headed by Major Speed and Princess Street . . . but what should be the logical favorite is the Kentucky Derby entrant, Count Chile . . . Jockey Johnny Longden is due to be aboard Peter Lane in the B.C. handicap this Sunday. . . .

Joe Louis still owes the United States Government over a million dollars in taxes. . . . on the other side of the fence heavyweight champion contender Floyd Patterson recently purchased another Cadillac. . . . the word is that Ray Robinson will fight two or three more times and then hang up his gloves for all time. . . . Maurice Richard has been named the top performer in hockey for the past decade in the current issue of Sport Magazine. . . . here are some of the other best-of-a-decade in their chosen fields:

Ted Williams, baseball; Rocky Marciano, boxing; Otto Graham, football; Eddie Arcaro, horse racing; Jack Kramer, tennis; John Landy, track. . . . Jack Fleck's playoff victory over Ben Hogan in the U.S. Open is the upset of the past 10 years; Roger Bannister's first four-minute mile is the top story of the decade. . . . and for the all-round best, the nod goes to Ben Hogan. . . . he's king of the lot, the "man of the decade". . . .

Who's the key man on the Shamrocks? We asked this question of some who should know, and here's a sample of the answers: George Johnston—"he gives them the biggest lift"; Archie Browning—"a steady influence to the entire team"; Alan Gill—"he gets the important goals"; Whitby Severson—"the team didn't start to jell until he returned to the line-up". . . .

Gil McDougald, the former Victoria second baseman and now a fixture with the Yankees, has been receiving rave notices since taking over the shortstop berth from aging Phil Rizzuto. . . . one scribe has even gone so far to suggest that "Gil is the best all-rounder in the business". . . . After looking at the short centre field fence in Athletic Park, Vancouver Mountie officials suggested it wouldn't surprise them if at least 10 home runs were hit in the Cancer Fund exhibition game against Portland Beavers here on Aug. 13. . . .

Former Victoria player Gil McDougald of New York Yankees displays form that has enabled him to take over shortstop berth for AL leaders.

In regard to the Stew Smith injury mentioned here Wednesday, the concern is not that the Shamrocks or the Minor Lacrosse Association don't take good care of their charges as may have been intimated in yesterday's report; they do, and better than most organizations, we might add; (matter of fact Minor League boss Doug Fletcher was one of the first, and last, to Smith's aid at the time of the incident) or that the service provided by the Irish is not of the highest calibre; it is, Smith receiving immediate attention. . . . We can also fully appreciate the fact that, at times, it is impossible to completely diagnose a physical injury even by expert preliminary examination, due to the mysteries of such things; and that, whenever any doubt exists as to there being a possibility of more serious injury than can be determined on first examination, a caution is provided the athlete that a further examination is advisable, particularly if the injury causes undue pain or discomfort. . . .

Smith was thus cautioned, which is at variance with yesterday's report.

But our point is this: We feel that, particularly in the case of minor athletes, every effort should be made to take immediate steps to alleviate the concern of the athlete, and the parents. In the case of Smith, who subsequently was found to be suffering from a double fracture, it did prove necessary. We further trust that the suggestion will be accepted in the manner in which it is presented. We're certain parents will agree.

8 TEAMS ENTER $1,000 BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) Eight baseball teams will vie for more than $1,000 in prize money at a three-day tournament starting here Friday.

Campbell River Cougars are sponsoring the tourney. Other centres to be represented are Millardville, Courtenay, Cumberland, Port Alberni, Powell River, Nanaimo and Victoria.

CITY SIDE UNCHANGED

United to Host Scots Friday

Victoria United and St. Andrews will have quite a bit in common Friday night at Athletic Park when they meet in a Coast Soccer League game at 8.15.

In the league's first half schedule, both ended up near the bottom of the standings. And, showing improvement in the second half, each has a loss and a draw in two starts. St. Andrews lost, 2-1, to New Westminster Royals, then drew, 2-2 with Halcro, while United lost 2-1 to Halcro and drew, 5-5, with North Shore Alcos.

So, when they meet at Athletic Park Friday night, with the winner gaining a share of lofty second place, it should be one of the most evenly-matched battles of the season. United coach Willie Hamilton seems to find last week's starting lineup, that drew with North Shore, good enough for this game, and for the first time in several weeks, it will go unchanged.

Archie McMillan will be in goal; Joe Robbins and Bill Hope at fullback; Hamilton, Dave Guthrie and Harold Holroyd as halfbacks; and Ced Robb, George Wright, Tom Druce, Tim Walker and Ken Hibbert on the front line. Spares are John Pickburn, Cee Harrison, Harry Carruthers, Joe Hillhouse and Bill McMillan.

For St. Andrews it will be Fred Briscoe in goal; Ben Maxwell and Arne Landsverk as fullbacks; Alex McKay, Ed Hamson and George Beckett as halfbacks; and George Mainwaring, Finlay Boag, Jack Swan, Reg Chapman and Pete Moran as forwards. Spares are Jack Dunn, Cliff Wells, Dave McGruer and Dave Morton.

Green, Nets Six For Foul Bay

Art Green fired six goals to lead Foul Bay's Senior "B" Lacrosse League team to a 19-3 exhibition game victory over Hall & Co. Big Horns at Stevenson Park on Tuesday.

Big Horns meet Junior Shamrocks in an exhibition game Friday night at Stevenson Park at 8.30.

'Tam' Tee Tournay Draws Crack Field

CHICAGO (UP)—Pro golf's "name" players get into action today in the first serious round of Tam o' Shanter's annual "All American Open" tourney, which will pay the winning man $3,420 of the total purse of $25,000.

The unknown men pro's, men and women amateurs are playing the course for three days to qualify for the payoff rounds which end Sunday after 72 holes, 18 per day, on the medium-length flat and wide-open course.

There were no stand-out favorites in the event, but defending champion Doug Ford, PGA champion and masters' winner Jack Burke, and national open champion Cary Middlecoff ranked among the top challengers.

In the same group were Julius Bonos, who won the "World" on the same course a year ago; veteran Sam Snead, British Open champion Peter Thomson, and Lloyd Mangrum, who holds the course record of 63.

Mangrum's course record could be broken too should the course dry out to allow the field a chance for a roll on the fairways and fast putting surfaces. He set the mark in 1948 by combining a first nine 32 with a second nine 31 to finish nine strokes under par.

'Old Pros' Clicking For Brooks

Maglie, Mitchell
Help Kayo Braves

By The Associated Press

Brooklyn Dodgers are winning the big games again in the National League pennant race, but look who's doing it for them—one-time nemesis Sal Maglie and Dale Mitchell, who wasn't even in the league two days ago.

The two old pros, with a combined age of 75, were the big guns as the third-place Braves knocked off Milwaukee 2-1 Wednesday night, moving to within three games of the first-place Braves. Maglie, 39, needed help, and missed his 100th victory, but he was the barber of old, claiming the Braves on five hits and leaving seven runners stranded while protecting a 1-0 lead before running out of gas in the seventh inning.

Mitchell, 35, was the guy who gave Brooklyn a 2-1 edge in the Ebbets Field series which ends today, chopping a pinch runner single in his first appearance since being picked up by the Dodgers from Cleveland Indians.

The defeat left Braves with a two-game lead as runner-up Cincinnati dropped a 3-1 decision to New York Red Sox, who figured to get fat on the last-place Giants while Milwaukee and Brooklyn were staging their brawl, had just two singles off Ruben Gomez and Mary Grissom.

St. Louis sent Pittsburgh to a seventh straight defeat, 4-1, and a grand-slammer by Willie Jones gave Philadelphia a 10-4 victory over Chicago Cubs.

In the American, Bob Lemon gained his 14th victory with a six-hitter, stopping New York 5-1 as second-place Cleveland cut the Yankees' runaway lead to eight games. Home runs by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen gave Boston a 5-4 victory over Detroit. Kansas City defeated Baltimore 9-4. Four runs in the 10th handed Washington a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Timbermen Full Value For Victory Over Rocks

Nanaimo 19, Victoria 12

By BILL RAYNER

The time has come to stop prefixing the sobriquet, "Mann Cup Champions," when referring to the Victoria Shamrocks.

The Shamrocks, indeed the best lacrosse team in all Canada last year, are but a poor third in the Intercity Lacrosse League this season and, on recent performances aren't fit to wear the same green of the Irish as the team that won the Mann Cup last October.

Of course, Jack Bionda, Arnie Ferguson and Nip O'Hearn are all gone, and the team has been beset by injuries most of the season, but Wednesday night at Memorial arena before 3,280 patient fans, Nanaimo Timbermen dispelled the Mann Cup myth once and for all with a cruel 19-12 victory over the unworthy Rocks.

This was supposed to have been the game the fighting Irish were really out to win in order to keep close contact with the second-place Vancouver Pileaters.

But once on the floor they just didn't seem to care that they were dooming themselves to finish in third, with the subsequent loss of home floor advantage in the coming playoffs.

Specifically it was the defence that let them down. The four defensive veterans, Bill Bamford, Jackie Thompson, Lou Landess and Al Davies, stood around looking at each other and cogitating on life without the Mann Cup while the Nanaimo forwards scampered joyously in on George Johnston, who had a rather loose night, too. Taking advantage of the shallow checking, Timbermen scored nine of their goals unassisted.

Up front, the Shamrock forwards fouled up their passes, shots and signals at an alarming rate. Pricked perhaps by their conscience in the third period and helped no end by the refereeing of Roy Burton and Ernie Smith, the Rocks actually outscored the T-Men for that brief 15 minutes.

Burton and Smith really got into the spirit of things, handing out 27 minutes in penalties to Nanaimo and 23 minutes to Victoria. Burton also served out a match misconduct penalty to Nanaimo coach Harry Wipperfurth in the third period, for some obscure reason.

At least Wipperfurth doesn't know. "I was just trying to ask him a few simple questions," said Harry after the game, "and he gives me the boot."

Nanaimo hardly missed Wipperfurth at all. After holding 6-2 and 11-5 advantages at quarter and half-time, they were still ahead by that score when Wipperfurth was banished at 1.30 of the third.

T-Men Closed in a Canter

Allowing Shamrocks to close to 13-9 at three-quarter time, Timbermen whipped six more goals past Johnston in the final period to win in a trot.

Don Ashbee, Terry Rodway and Don Sherry led the implacable attack, scoring four goals each. Wee Bobby Allan, going after a league scoring record, added two goals.

Police To Guard Lokomotiv

WINNIPEG (CP)—Thorough police precautions are being taken to guard the Moscow Lokomotiv soccer team when it visits Winnipeg Aug. 8 for an exhibition game with a local all-star team.

The plans were announced Wednesday by Ken Bowyer, vice-president of the National Soccer League and chairman of the reception committee.

He said applications were received for two blocks of tickets for 1,000 seats each at the game. They came from rival ethnic groups. Both were turned down.

"We don't want any trouble if we can help it," Bowyer said.

Sim Returns From Lion Grid Camp

Jack Sim, local intermediate football player who was taken to pre-season training camp with the B.C. Lions, has come home of his own accord but counts his stay with the Lions as a valuable experience.

Sim, an end who was being groomed as a centre by the WFLU team said on his return to the city, "They treated me great up there, but I knew there was not much sense staying in Vancouver another three weeks. When I left, the team guaranteed me another try next year and I hope I can make it then. I couldn't have bought the experience I got this summer for any price."

Sim hopes to secure a football scholarship to Western Washington College.

He also reported that Ken Higgins, the other Victorian trying out with the Lions, "is looking great as a defensive back. They'll keep him for sure this season."

Help Needed to Entertain 2,250 Sailors From U.S.

Cruiser Bremerton, Six Smaller Ships Here Saturday to Wednesday

City authorities and naval officials here have ironed out details in a plan to entertain 2,250 United States Navy officers and men between Saturday and Wednesday—but they still need help from residents.

The sailors are coming here Saturday in the cruiser USS Bremerton and six smaller ships.

It is expected liberty parties of 1,500 men will be ashore each day of the four-day visit.

Victoria alderman Austin Curtis, who has charge of arrangements for entertaining the crews of the ships, today said that arrangements are now completed for a baseball game between a team from the cruiser and the Victoria Farmer Construction, early Monday evening.

The local team is in fifth place in the Northwest International Baseball League. Admission to the game will be free.

Arrangements have also been made to move ahead to Monday at 8.30 p.m., the usual Wednesday night intercity lacrosse game at Memorial Arena. Victoria Shamrocks will meet Vancouver Pilseners. Special low rates will be in effect for the visiting sailors and they will be briefed beforehand on the sport. Box lacrosse is almost unknown in the U.S. although field lacrosse is played by some colleges.

Tuesday night there will be a special free-to-the-navy show by the Gerry Gosleyville Show at Central Junior High School auditorium.

Ald. Curtis pointed out today however that the biggest job of providing entertainment for the sailors lies with residents. On behalf of city council he has asked that Victorians invite the men into their homes, take them on drives and otherwise assist in the hospitality operation.

Persons desiring a sailor or group of sailors should contact the Armed Services Leave Centre, 1314A Government, (phone 2-0771).

Shipyards Wage Dicker Progressing

Negotiations between coast steel shipyards and 20 trade unions bargaining as a unit are reported "making progress" following the second meeting of management and union representatives in Vancouver Tuesday.

Shipyards tradesmen, numbering between 3,000 and 5,000 in two Victoria yards and other Vancouver yards, ask a 35-cent-an-hour across-the-board wage hike for all employees, plus 21 fringe items, mostly changes in conditions of work.

A management spokesman said Tuesday's meeting indicated the parties are "exploring the possibilities of settlement." Management is waiting to hear from the union Joint Shipyard Wage Conference regarding date of a further meeting.

It is the first time so many shipyard trades have bargained collectively as a single group representing both AFL-TLC and CIO-CCL organizations prior to merger of the two groups into the Canadian Labor Congress.

Rear-Admiral Hugh Pullen, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, and Admiral Collins.

Bremerton will lie at HMCS Naden jetty and will be open to public inspection Sunday between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m.

The other ships will be the four destroyers USS Bausell, USS Richard B. Anderson, USS Agerholm and USS Rogers, and two radar picket vessels, USS Lowe and USS Wilhoite.

USS Richard B. Anderson and USS Agerholm will be berthed at Ogden Point jetty and will be open to the public on Monday and Tuesday between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

MODEL YACHT POOL NEEDS CREWCUT TRIM

Brush around Holland Point model yacht pool must be thinned before the $17,000 pond is suitable for sailing, Optimist Club vice-president Al Lyle said today.

He blamed the underbrush for the becalming of some 40 model sailing vessels, launched on the pool Wednesday night. More than 70 persons attended the launching.

Most of the yachts were built by boy hobbyists in the Optimist Club workshop, under direction of Stan Jarvis.

Vic West Plans To End Pollution

Victoria West Community Association will undertake to end pollution of Selkirk Water fronting on Banfield Park and will launch a drive for funds to provide a good bathing beach at the park.

The announcement came from association chairman Charles Banfield following posting of "No Swimming" signs in the area by Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health.

The association will meet next Thursday and it is expected the group will apply to city council for foreshore rights at the park. However, it is felt in city hall these rights are under provincial jurisdiction.

Once foreshore rights are obtained the association can remove a shack which is felt to contribute to the pollution; with septic tank runoff, and can convert the other to a bath-house.

It is also planned to sand and gravel the beach. Until the closure it had been used by 40 or 50 children daily, Mr. Banfield said.

TAKE SHELL MIDSUMMER BETTER DRIVING TEST NO. 12

How do you rate on this driver's obstacle course?

You may meet these five situations during a day of driving. From the three alternatives given for each situation, choose what you would do. Then see "How to Rate Yourself" below.

1. Coming up a hill behind a truck would you:

- Honk at the driver to pull over? ☐
- Shift to low and pass quickly? ☐
- Slow down and follow at a safe distance to the top or to a long straightaway? ☐

2. At a flashing red light, would you:

- Honk three times before going through? ☐
- Stop, then go when safe? ☐
- Slow down to 15 mph before going through? ☐

3. When you enter a small town would you:

- Assume that you should reduce your speed? ☐
- Assume that 40 mph is a reasonable speed? ☐
- Maintain highway speed unless signs or policemen tell you otherwise? ☐

4. The lights are flashing at this railroad crossing, but there's no train in sight. Would you:

- Hurry across before the train gets too close? ☐
- Stop, then cross when the signal lights stop flashing? ☐
- Slow down to make sure the train isn't coming before you cross? ☐

5. When you come up behind bicycle riders, would you:

- Come up slowly and pass only when you have a clear, wide lane? ☐
- Stay as close to the center of the road as you can? ☐
- Honk them off the road? ☐

You play for keeps when you drive

HOW TO RATE YOURSELF

Here are the correct answers for each situation:

1. Slow down and follow truck until it's safe to pass.
 2. Stop... then go when you see it's safe.
 3. In any unposted built-up area, assume that you should reduce your speed.
 4. Stop and wait until the lights stop flashing.
 5. Come up slowly and pass when your lane is clear. Don't startle cyclists by honking your horn.
- Perhaps you're used to tests when 70% is passing. Unfortunately, one wrong action in these situations can mean serious trouble. You should get a perfect score.

Before your vacation, you stop the milk, give the house key to a neighbour, tuck the family into the car... and you're free to travel anywhere on the thousands of miles of highways that start from your garage door. Beyond your windshield, in any direction, lie the beauty and luxury of Canada. Shell urges you to enjoy it in safety. And safety is so simple. Just keep your eyes on the road, your hands on the wheel, your mind on your driving. And come home safely.

Bennett Again Hints Election

Premier Bennett, accepting unanimous nomination as Social Credit candidate in his home town of Kelowna Wednesday night, once again dropped hints that a provincial election is coming shortly.

But he did not, as some high Social Crediters expected, name the actual date for the contest at the polls.

The premier, smiling mischievously, almost teased his audience about the election date according to a Canadian Press report. Social Crediters were celebrating the fourth anniversary of the government's taking office in 1952.

"We must have an election from time to time," he said. "You have them in any free Commonwealth country. They are held at any time, and any movement or government scared of cold water, must be ready to face the issue."

ALL READY NOW
"We are all ready tonight. Social Credit celebrations are going on all over the province—and birthday candles are flashing hope across the country."

House-to-house enumeration of voters in three Greater Vancouver ridings—Vancouver Centre, Burrard and North Vancouver—began Tuesday.

It is expected that Social Credit candidates will have been nominated by the end of August in nearly every one of the 42 electoral districts throughout the province.

The premier wore a triumphant grin when he rose to address an audience of more than 500 people packing Kelowna's Aquatic Ballroom. Saying that an election must come "sooner or later," he cautioned his supporters against over-criticizing the Opposition.

PUT OUT BANNERS
"Don't argue with anyone," he urged. "As we go into an election, put out banners telling the people to vote for progress not politics."

Mr. Bennett reviewed the government's achievements as he has done many times at press conferences in Victoria.

He said legislation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature giving every homeowner a $28 rebate on taxes.

COST $8 MILLION
"The cost of the scheme in the first year will be $8,000,000. Where is the money coming from? My answer is where did the money go before?"

Mr. Bennett claimed that the provincial debt has been reduced from $200,000,000 when his government took office to $114,000,000 today. In 1962, he said, the entire provincial debt will be paid off.

"The government is putting aside $25,000,000 to retire the debt," he said. "If we didn't have to put that money aside, look what we could pass on as a saving to the public."

He claimed it was the "poor people" who supported the government in 1952 "and for that reason we will never forget the poor people."

He said the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will show a net profit of $1,500,000 this year, and described the extension of the line from Vancouver to Prince George as "the government's pride and joy."

SHE'S MAD—Lady Docker, glamorous wife of Sir Bernard Docker, deposed millionaire chairman of the giant Birmingham Small Arms combine, said today she is thinking of changing her nationality after her husband's resounding defeat Wednesday in his attempt to regain his job.

TENDERS TOO HIGH

Marigold School Plans Postponed

Plans for a new four-room Marigold Elementary School this year were dropped by Greater Victoria School Board Wednesday night when all of seven tenders submitted were rejected as too high.

The project will likely be re-submitted to district ratepayers in December along with several secondary school additions or new constructions. It is expected the board will now ask the Marigold school be constructed as an eight-room unit.

Lowest tender opened Wednesday was for $114,628 by E. J. Hunter and Sons. The department of education confirmed the board's action. Original board estimates, included in the last school building by-law, were $80,000.

ISLAND DIGEST

AUDITORIUM WILL STAY

Irate Ratepayers Fail To Alter School By-Law

TOFINO—One of the stormiest public meetings ever held here accomplished exactly nothing after an evening's discussion of the contentious $250,000 school development by-law defeated here June 8.

Ratepayers objected to expenditure of $100,000 for a gymnasium-auditorium at Ucluelet High School and asked the board if an alternative plan had been drawn.

H. C. Ferguson, school inspector, supported the school board in its refusal to alter the by-law in any way, and the meeting was told the by-law would be presented over and over again in its present form until passed.

Major items are the $100,000 for the gymnasium, $125,000 for classroom additions and alterations, and $25,000 for plans, sundries, and supervision.

It was suggested that a high school be built at Long Beach, midway between Tofino and Ucluelet, to save Tofino students 58 miles of bus travel daily. Mr. Ferguson said the education department would not consider such a proposition since the site is not in a centre of population.

He also rejected a proposal that a junior high school be built in Tofino, saying more than 300 students were required for a junior high.

New Resort Sub-Division Sells Well

PARKSVILLE—Capilano Highlands (1952) Ltd. of Vancouver has announced considerable development at its new "Beachcomber" resort subdivision five miles south of here.

The project consists of 350 lots on Cottam Point, known locally as Tongue Point. Situated north of Nanos Bay, the point measures one mile by one-quarter mile, and faces Georgia Strait to the east and Northwest Bay on the west.

More than a mile of road has been built, or two-thirds of the total, and one and one-half miles of water pipe have been installed. Source of water will be Enos Lake, two miles south of the subdivision, which will be dammed.

Telephone and electric power services are available.

With Jo Healy

CAYCUSE—OCCASIONALLY I WASTE A LITTLE time thumbing through a magazine, not reading anything in particular but mostly enjoying the wonders of advertising. One appealingly comical gimmick is the drawing that touts a sun-tan lotion... shows a most fetching infant crawling along with its diapers pulled down by an equally fetching, mischievous pup-dog... the infant anatomy usually covered by the triangle innocently white in comparison to the rest of the sun-browned, sturdy little body... caption says, "don't be a pale-face."

NEXT IN APPEAL IS THE GAP-TOOTHED GRIN ON the youngster who beams over the words "this space reserved for a tooth that must last for 68 years." I'm not too observant, though, and had to leaf through several magazines to find out what tooth-paste company dreamed up that one... found out it's the brand I buy, not because it contains secret formula WD-9, but because the kids prefer the flavor... found out why after reading the ad through... it says, "that new minty flavor goes great with everybody."

SO IF, LIKE I, YOU LOOK AT THE PICTURES, READ the captions, but skip the text, make an exception when you come across the tractor company advertisement that sells nothing but a plea for caution and commonsense. Rated by an annual awards committee as the most distinguished public-interest advertisement of the year, the simplicity of the from-the-shoulder dialogue by the central figure in the picture, of the picture itself, and of the caption "Ever Watch a Forest Die?" makes for a sell-out.

The man in the ad, a steel-helmeted, smoke-begrimed operator, leans wearily against the bulldozer with which he has been fighting a forest fire. In the background smoke swirls around the charred tree trunks, curls over the blackened ground. The man's shoulders slump in fatigue. He tells of fighting this fire, tells of his thoughts as he rests there. He tells of the million-dollar loss we'll read about in the papers, and what we won't see in the papers—"the red hell that turned big trees into living torches... you won't hear the roar of it or know the black discouragement of falling back, defeated, time after time... I remember the scorched young trees that would have been forest some day..."

He says, "Last of all I think of you. Was it you who dropped the match? You who tossed the cigarette out the car window, or left the campfire smoldering? If it was, I wish you'd been here with me to see this forest die."

THEY'RE RUGGED, TOO

Rolls Royce Power For B.C. Logging

Rolls-Royce engines, that helped win two wars for Great Britain, and which until now have been associated only with the aristocracy of motordom, are making things hum in B.C.'s logging industry.

They are not the Merlins that powered Spitfires and Hurricanes, or the silky smooth gasoline engines of the famous Rolls-Royce cars, but rugged six-cylinder diesels that are trading punches with other industrial engines and coming out on top.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. has 19 logging trucks powered with the British motors at work on Vancouver Island, and finds they use less fuel, less lubricant, and cost less for maintenance than those in other trucks operating under similar conditions.

TWO-WAY BENEFIT

They are here because H. R. MacMillan felt something should be done to decrease Great Britain's $251,000,000 trade deficit with Canada.

"It is obviously in the self-interest of the British Columbia forest industry to try to buy a larger volume of British goods," Mr. MacMillan told the Sloan Royal Commission on Forestry.

"MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. are finding it can be done satisfactorily and on a competitive basis."

Two were purchased as a test and 17 more were put to work on the strength of the reputation established by the originals. They are now beginning to replace other engines on stationary logging units.

ONLY A MURMUR

Specifications show the motors have a displacement of 742.64 cubic inches, develop 185 horsepower without supercharging and 250 horsepower with superchargers. Drivers like the British product because of its quiet operation under even the heaviest loads—more of a murmur than the customary roar of power usually associated with a logging truck.

The logs are the same and the trucks are the same. Only outward difference is that the trucks with the British engines under the hood carry a sideplate with the proud message: "Powered by Rolls-Royce."

Nanaimo Low Bid Wins School Job

Contract for addition to Royal Oak High School was awarded to a Nanaimo firm, A & B Construction Company Tuesday.

The firm bid $37,133. School District 63 trustees approved the tender.

Other bidders were: M. B. East of Sidney, $38,500; F. A. Robinson, $38,580; Weismuller Construction Company, $40,261; McKinty and Sons, $40,927; and Darcy Construction Company, $41,162.

Kildonan Youth Hurt In Fall Over Cliff

ALBERNI (CP)—A Kildonan boy injured in a fall over a cliff Monday night was brought to hospital here early Tuesday by an RCMP patrol boat.

RCMP Sgt. F. H. Brookshank, in charge of the patrol boat, said he received the call shortly after midnight Monday, two hours after Arthur Coates fell while playing.

Teachers Needed At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Seven high school teachers are needed here to fill vacancies on the 1956-57 teaching staff.

School trustees announced that all vacancies on the elementary teaching staff have been filled.

Next term, the school board will have 131 teachers on its payroll. The increasing student population has forced the board to order a new school bus.

Two Air Crash Victims Plucked From Peak by RCAF Helicopter

(The Canadian Press) REVELSTOKE — Both occupants of a light plane which crashed Tuesday on a mountain side near here were injured, hospital officials said today.

Larry Holgate, 21, of Kelowna, area in an aircraft owned by Cariboo Air Charter Ltd. of Kelowna, was plucked from a peak by an RCAF helicopter. The pair were on a timber cruising flight in the Revelstoke area.

rescue operation was carried out in four hours.

LAC Dick Bruce of Kelowna was lowered from the 'copter because the terrain, 5,000 feet up a mountainside, was too rough for a landing. He strapped Holgate to his lowered stretcher and then attended Bailey who, besides suffering a broken ankle, had head lacerations and a cracked rib.

The helicopter then flew Holgate into Revelstoke and returned with RCMP Constable Jim Blake and RCAF Sgt. Usher, who were lowered to move Bailey to a spot where the 'copter could land.

ARSON PATROLS OFFERED

VANCOUVER — A special fire department arson patrol was set up here Wednesday following an outbreak of fires in the thickly populated west end district.

Wednesday's fires, which damaged two rooming houses and an apartment block, sent 60 persons fleeing to the street.

Earlier this year the same area was swept by a series of fires, some labelled arson, in which four persons died.

In the last two months, there have been seven cases of arson and one attempt in the same area.

OIL FIRE AVERTED

PENTICTON — A quick-thinking service station operator was credited with preventing a fire from spreading to nearly 50,000 gallons of stored gasoline here Wednesday. Ken Roegel spotted flames rising from a building at Royalite Oil's bulk plant. After calling the fire department, Roegel ran to the plant and shut off valves feeding from four 12,000-gallon gasoline tanks 30 feet from the fire.

Firemen were bale to confine the blaze to one section of the building which received extensive damage.

TV SALES DOWN

VANCOUVER — Sale of television sets in the greater Vancouver area continued to drop during June says a report released by the B.C. Electric.

The survey of dealers shows 10,343 sales up to the end of June, compared with 19,338 for the same period the previous year.

James Island Plant Awarded Safety Trophy

SIDNEY — Employees at the James Island explosives plant of Canadian Industries Limited this week won the president's award in the company's safety plan by completing 786,000 injury-free man-hours of work in the last two and one-half years.

This marks the third time the plant has won the award in the no-accident record contest.

Date of the celebration for presentation of the main award and individual awards to each employee will be announced later.

Last lost-time accident at the plant was Dec. 14, 1953. Works manager is R. B. Carpenter.

SUN RECORD BROKEN

KAMLOOPS — A 48-year-average for sunshine was broken in July in Kamloops when 363.6 hours were recorded to shatter the previous July average of 317. The mercury dropped below 80 on only five days during the month.

Tourist Office Calls Up 150% at Duncan

DUNCAN — A total of 622 calls, visitors and local, was reported during July at the tourist information office on the Trans-Canada Highway here, maintained by the Cowichan-Duncan Chamber of Commerce.

J. B. Creighton, secretary, said this number was almost 150 per cent more than the total in July, 1955. The visitor total this July exceeded the total number of visitor and local calls at the office during July and August last year. Americans accounted for 32 per cent of the calls, and 23 per cent came from the prairie provinces.

Mr. Creighton estimated that the July calls provided information for more than 1,500 visitors and about 400 intending travelers from this district.

HOSPITAL DEFICIT

King's Daughters' Hospital had a deficit of $308 for the first six months of this year, administrator Ken Noton reported to the directors.

Retroactive wage increases were not included in the calculation and will add about $2,200 to the deficit.

According to the BCHS statement for the same period the hospital had a deficit of $4,108, but non-operating revenue was excluded from BCHS figures. Largest single item was room differentials, that amounted to $3,517. Revenue for the six-month period was $250,576. Patient days to the end of June totaled 17,654 as compared with 19,372 for the same period last year. The hospital has a new day rate of $12.60, an increase of 33 cents over the 1955 rate.

HURT IN GAS BLAST

VANCOUVER — Doug Wessel, B.C. Electric Co. gas inspector, escaped with hand burns Wednesday when a water heater exploded as he was adjusting it.

Electronic Watchdog Set To Guard Submarine Cable

A trouble-detecting alarm system will safeguard the B.C. Electric's high-voltage submarine power cable to Vancouver Island, now being laid in Georgia Strait by the British cable vessel Ocean Layer.

The electronic "watchdog" will warn of a drop in pressure inside cables which contain nitrogen gas to keep out water in case of a leak or breakage.

The vital alarm circuit will be installed by the B.C. Telephone Co. in the Galiano-Salt Spring Islands area. The project includes placing open wire, erecting poles and laying submarine cable.

Alarm connections will be at "gas pressure houses" at locations at Point Roberts and Galiano, Parker and Salt Spring Islands. It will safeguard only submerged cable sections of the giant $6,000,000 project.

Leakage trouble or a short circuit will flick a light at the telephone exchange nearest the trouble zone. Operators then inform B.C. Electric officials.

Emergency pumping equipment at each "gas pressure house" automatically starts when gas pressure drops below 300 pounds per square inch inside cables. Sufficient pressure is generated until repair crews arrive.

B.C. Telephone engineers have devised similar alarm systems, but this is the first used for gas-pressured power cable.

*What a whale of a difference

Look for this Hallmark
ON EVERY BOX OF FRUIT YOU BUY

In all Canada, only the mountain valleys of B.C. have that rare combination of rich, fertile land, plentiful sparkling mountain waters, and incessant sunshine, so essential to the growing of the very best fresh fruits. Couple this with the "know how" of Canada's most modern and up-to-date fruit growers, and the result is fruit of distinctive and surpassing flavor and goodness—the very best available, regardless of source.

All B.C. Mountain Grown tree fruits are identified with this hallmark on the end of the box. So... if you want the best when you're buying fresh fruit, be sure to look for this hallmark... it means finer flavor—finer quality. It means the best fresh fruit your money can buy... worth looking for—worth waiting for!

IT'S TIME FOR B.C. PEACHES

Full-flavored, top quality B.C. Peaches are now arriving at your favorite store, and there'll be full supplies starting Monday, August 6th.

Highly popular for fresh eating, the fine flavor of B.C. Peaches makes them a preserving favorite with many homemakers too. Why not try them soon?

The B. C. Peach Season starts next week and will last for approximately six weeks... so be sure to specify "B. C." Peaches!

Ask your food store for free B.C. home canning booklet, or write to Dept. N, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., Kelowna, B.C.

ROOKIE N.S. POLICEMAN SPOTS WANTED B.C. MAN

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—A rookie policeman's sharp eye sent a Calgary theft suspect heading back to Alberta today under police escort.

Constable Harry Barnhill, 25, on the Dartmouth force five months, leaped through a file of wanted men in the town police station and saw a face like that of a grocery clerk in Barnhill's home town of Stewiacke, N.S.

The constable tipped RCMP, who arrested William Hamilton, 23, at the Stewiacke Co-op Grocery. Hamilton is said to be wanted by Calgary city police and British Columbia RCMP on charges of breaking and entering, theft and forgery.

90 Days Grace Given Latoria Water Users

Latoria Road families who are threatened with stoppage of water supply have been granted a total of 90 days to arrange a new supply system or dig wells. Earlier, Esquimalt-Saanich MP Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, had wired word of a 60-day extension of the July 31 shut-down, from Ottawa.

Wednesday, the navy, which has charge of the pipeline serving the area, confirmed a total of 90 days of grace has been approved.

The 17 families concerned are served with a wartime-installed wooden pipeline which is now deteriorated. Owned by the federal government, the pipeline is considered too costly to repair.

Greater Victoria Water District doesn't want to take over the service in view of the small return in water rates. Board members feel it would be unfair to other district consumers to spend $50,000 to $60,000 there unless the 40 homeowners in the district are willing to assume the cost over a six-year period.

DUKE PLANS TO VISIT ANTARCTIC

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh will visit Antarctica during his tour of the southern hemisphere after opening the Olympic Games at Melbourne, Buckingham Palace said Wednesday.

An official at the palace said the royal yacht Britannia would be off Graham Land, in the southern American side of Antarctica, from Jan. 1 to Jan. 3 next year. "He will land there if conditions are at all possible," the official said.

Garson Asks Provinces to Help Write New Bingo, Penal Laws

By VICTOR MACKIE
OTTAWA Correspondent
OTTAWA—A federal-provincial legal conference to be called this fall, probably in November, will study a wide range of subjects including recent Royal Commission recommendations on the treatment of criminals and the controversial question of lottery legislation.

Legal authorities of the provincial governments will be invited by Hon. Stuart Garson, minister of justice, to this conference as final stage in the over-all revisions of the Canadian Criminal Code. They will review all the portions of the criminal law and of penal reform that have not already been considered in the revision of the Criminal Code passed by parliament.

The report of the joint senate-commons committee which made recommendations this week to parliament concerning lotteries, bingo and other games of chance, will be under study particularly in respect to where the provincial administrations come into the picture.

The enactment of the criminal law is the responsibility of parliament. The administration of justice and the enforcement of the law is exclusively a provincial right and responsibility. Therefore, Mr. Garson points out, it was only right and proper that the representatives of the provinces, who through experience have gained insight as to form the law should take, and what are workable procedural changes, should be afforded the opportunity to make their views known.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

They don't hardly make black automobiles anymore, and I take a dim view of the situation.

I can remember a time when the possession of a black automobile was within the reach of all.

In fact, I can even remember when Henry Ford (the original, nonpareil) said: "We'll make them any color you wish, as long as it is black."

But today, if you go shopping for a black automobile, the best you can expect from the car salesman is a black look.

"Magenta we have," he will say. "Shocking pink with chartreuse, we have," he will go on. "Blush red, plus charcoal brown, plus pink plum beautiful, we have. But," the salesman will say, "black we ain't got."

Possibly I could stagger through the rest of my allotted span of years, but I am in desperate need of same.

This friend (maybe I should say acquaintance) has decided to take up a new line of work.

He has decided to become a gangster.

Over the years, this acquaintance (maybe I should say a man I happen to know) has husbanded his resources, lived frugally, putting aside a little here, a little there, toward the day when he could go into business as a gangster.

He has acquired a black cigar, a black homburg, and a blackjack.

But he cannot find a black automobile.

And he realizes every gangster must have a black automobile for reliable witnesses to see speeding away from the scene of the crime.

This man I happen to know (maybe I should say a man with whom I have a nodding acquaintance) does not wish, reliable witnesses to report him speeding away from the scene of the crime in a cream-and-coffee colored convertible.

Or even a light-yellow and cerise hardtop.

When he flees from the scene of the crime, he wishes to do so in a sinister black sedan.

This man with whom I have a nodding acquaintance (to tell the truth, the face is familiar but I can't quite place the name) is going to be frustrated in his ambition to become a gangster unless someone will produce a black automobile.

If no black automobile is forthcoming, he will have to secure a pink cigar, a scarlet homburg, and a bluejack.

Please, automobile makers, do not have a frustrated gangster on your hands.

Bring out a whole new line of colors, any color you wish, as long as it is black.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Wednesday's edition of The Times the address of Earl S. Upton, appearing in city police court, was incorrectly given as 419 Belleville.

It should have been 1941 Ash.

Jerry Gosley's recording of "We're Going to Fight to Keep Victoria British" went on sale Wednesday in music stores across Canada and the United States.

Reverse side of the record features Irene Henderson and Al Denoni in "On Vancouver Island," another Gosley song.

Both songs are heard in the Gosley Smile Show, staged Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Langham Court Theatre.

Victoria's juvenile court handled a total of 144 charges in the first six months of this year, police records disclose. Included were seven charges of incorrigibility, five for drunkenness or possession of liquor, and seven charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency. Fines totalled $584 and 20 persons, some adults, were sentenced to industrial schools or Okalla prison farm.

B.C.'s first atlas of resources is on display in the Ewing Building, Victoria College.

First volume of its kind to be published in North America, the 100-page atlas comprises several years' work by the British Columbia Resources Conference. Maps were compiled, draughted, lithographed and printed within the province. The atlas is designed for use in schools and businesses. Display closes next Tuesday.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC CALLS FOR BIG DAY

An appeal for 400 pints of blood to offset a "very disappointing" yield of 120 pints in Wednesday's clinic went out today from Red Cross headquarters.

"Usually we receive close to 600 pints in a two-day session," Major T. Hogarth, chairman of the blood donor panel said today. "If we don't get 400 pints today, there won't be enough blood in the blood bank to supply the normal demand for local hospitals."

Red Cross clinic continues today at 1046 Fort Street, from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m., and 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

Provincial Health Minister Eric Martin will give a televised talk on the government's hospital planning over station CBUT, Vancouver, tonight at 11 p.m.

Three pedestrians were injured late Wednesday night when they were in collision with a car at Yates and Broad. Mrs. Ivy Langton, 55, 114 Ontario, was reported in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with hip injuries.

Viola P. Potholomew, 54, of 910 McLeod, and David Adams, 40, of 1157 Johnson, both were treated for minor leg injuries and released.

Police identified the driver as Rodney W. Arvey, 1140 Government. The accident occurred a few minutes before midnight.

An HMCS Naden sailor who spent four months in hospital after crashing a stolen car in Saanich March 1, was fined $75 in city police court today for taking a car without the owner's consent.

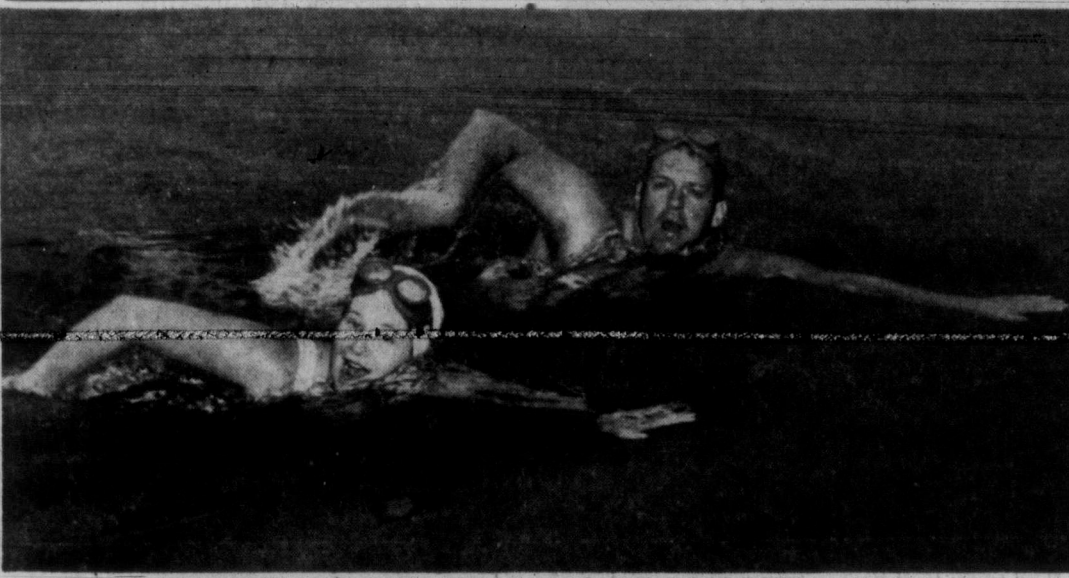

John P. Hamilton pleaded guilty. Further charges are pending in Saanich court.

WINNER of a $2,000 Christopher Foundation special scholarship to university is Joseph John Haegert, 17, who averaged 91.25 per cent in grade 12 departmental exams at Victoria High school this year. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke street, he was president of the Vic High student council and active in dramatic and glee clubs. He also took part in YMCA and Boy Scout activities. A track star, he holds the juvenile Canadian 440 and the juvenile B.C. 220 records. He will enter Victoria College in the fall, to major in science.

TORONTO SWIM TWINS TEAMED

Lumsdon, Marilyn Form Formidable Swim Team

Three Others Coming to Try Strait, 'Only 18 Miles', Easy, Says Jaremy

By DENNY BOYD

Juan de Fuca Strait today was threatened by the greatest one-two distance swimming punch in Canada and there was the threat of more punishment to come for the much-challenged, once-conquered Strait.

Cliff Lumsdon, who picked up $5,000 for his dramatic stretch drive victory over Tom Park in last month's Atlantic City 26-mile marathon, arrived in Victoria Wednesday night to team with Toronto Lakeshore club-mate Marilyn Bell in training for strait challenge.

Lumsdon wasted no time in his training program. He was in the water at 9 this morning with Marilyn for a one-hour dip around Oak Bay waters while Gus Ryder, the most successful coach in the long-distance game, put them through their paces.

Marilyn is training for a solo swim for a minimum prize of $20,000. Lumsdon will help Marilyn train and will be readying himself for the Junior Chamber of Commerce mass race for a minimum total of $6,000 in cash prizes, Aug. 26.

Meanwhile, from the east, Pat Roach wired The Times that he would be in Victoria Aug. 11 with swimmers John Jaremy, Bidd Sadlo and Ann Meraw to try the strait.

JUAN DE FUCA TEMPERATURE

At Race Rocks today 51.6 degrees. (Authority, Dept. of Transport)

even though she had told her handlers before the swim not to pay any attention if she asked to come out.

Lumsdon also gave a description of his Atlantic City duel with his rival, Tom Park.

"We swam together for 12 miles and then he opened up a short lead in the 13th mile when I weakened a little. When I got some nourishment I caught him and we kept leap-frogging. In the last 100 yards we started a sprint and I knew then that he didn't have much left. I took a couple of extra leaps and beat him by half the length of my body."

The Jaycees will attempt to boost their cash prizes over the $6,000 mark Friday night when they hold a Dutch auction, taking pledges by telephone.

Headquarters will be at Morrison Motors, where telephone pledges will be taken. A fleet of cars will be dispatched to pick up the pledged contributions for the swim, to which the biggest names in world-wide distance swimming have been invited.

Manslaughter Charge Laid In Traffic Death

Cyclist Victim Lived 8 Days

A charge of manslaughter arising out of a fatal traffic accident July 6 was laid in city police court today against Roderick J. Graff, 1613 Belmont.

Police identified Graff as the driver of a car which was in collision with cyclist Reginald F. Minihinnick, 68, of 2926 Fifth. Minihinnick died in hospital from head injuries eight days later.

Graff was remanded when he appeared in court today to Friday to set a date for trial.

The accident occurred at 4.50 p.m., July 6 at Bay and Blanchard.

Witnesses said Minihinnick's bicycle collided with the left rear of Graff's car in the intersection.

A coroner's jury ruled the death "accidental."

Minihinnick's death was the second traffic fatality of the year in the city and the eighth in the Greater Victoria area.

TALLEST TOTEM REPLICA GIVEN TOURIST CHIEF

An exact replica of the world's tallest totem was presented the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau today by Deputy Trade and Industry Minister Thomas Sturgess.

It was accepted on behalf of the bureau by Commissioner George Warren.

Mr. Sturgess won the totem, carved by Chief Mungo Martin, David Martin and Henry Hall, as a door prize at the annual meeting of the publicity bureau.

Today he gave the five-and-one-half foot replica back to the bureau.

It will stand in a window facing Government Street, with a notation attached stating it's the little brother of the world's biggest in Beacon Hill park.

Safeway Building Set for Contract

Contractor for a $175,000 Safeway super-market planned at Burnside and Tillicum is expected to be named in a few days, Vancouver architects said this morning.

The new 150 by 90 feet building will be erected on a triangular plot of land measuring 375 feet by 375 feet by 437 feet, the even sides of which will be formed by Tillicum and Burnside south of the trans-Canada highway.

Two-thirds of the total area will be for parking, a spokesman for the firm Semmens and Simpson, architects, said.

B.C. Woods Re-opened To Tourists

Big Rain Ends Ban On Forest Activity

forest closure imposed on Vancouver forest district at midnight July 23 was lifted at noon today.

Removal of the closure order, the second this year, followed extensive rain over Vancouver Island south of the Campbell River and along the mainland coast west of the Cascades.

Elsewhere in Vancouver forest district humidity is very high with a consequent increase in forest-fuel moisture content.

"Fire hazard throughout the district is now moderate," Lands and Forests Minister Ray Wiliston said.

Except for a purely local shower over Victoria Wednesday, the rain was the first in the lower Vancouver Island area since July 6. Victoria recorded 1.03 inches for the 30-hour period preceding 11.30 a.m. today.

"Although more rain is expected today and Friday, by Friday afternoon skies will be generally sunny over Vancouver forest district," a spokesman for the forest protection service said. "Humidity is expected to remain high."

PUBLIC THANKED

Mr. Williston signed the order ending restrictions on woods travel shortly before noon after a conference with provincial forestry officials and by phone with the district forester in Vancouver.

"We are very grateful to the public for the way they have co-operated during the recent period of extreme hazard," the minister said.

"Everyone has been so careful that the number and extent of fires in the district have been kept to a minimum. Holidaymakers and travellers show an increasing awareness of forest fire restrictions and consulted with forestry officials before visiting areas likely to be closed."

Threatened With Acid, Says Woman

A Victoria woman testified in city police court today that she was threatened by another woman who told her:

"I'm not going to kill you with a gun or a knife but I'm going to throw acid in your pretty face."

Lillian Mary French, 326 Simcoe, said the statement was made to her over the telephone by Josephine M. Perram, Johnson Street.

Mrs. Perram has pleaded not guilty to a charge of threatening.

At the completion of today's trial Magistrate Henry Hall remanded her until Friday for a decision.

Mrs. French, manager of Island Taxi, said she had also received a threatening letter from Mrs. Perram four days before the telephone call.

Mrs. Perram's husband, Walter, was employed as a driver for Island Taxi for four years until his death in December of last year.

Defence witness Doreen Clair May, 770 Queens, testified that Mrs. Perram was with her at her home between 8 and 9 p.m. on the night of July 18, when the phone call was alleged to have been made.

On the witness stand Mrs. Perram said, "I'm not guilty of this or anything else. I'm not a vicious person."

Under questioning by prosecutor Alan Bigelow Mrs. Perram said she would agree to enter into a bond to be of good behavior to Mrs. French.

Desmond Kidd Named Scout Commissioner

Appointment of Dr. Desmond F. (Cap) Kidd, Vancouver consulting geologist, as provincial commissioner of the B.C.-Yukon Boy Scouts' Association was announced today.

He succeeds Col. Cyril T. Batten who died suddenly last year. Dr. Kidd's duties will start immediately in the rapid-growing, 27,000-member Scout organization.

Born in London, Eng., in 1905, he came to B.C. in 1911 and because of his size, became a Scout three years later despite being three years below regulation age of 12.

The Wolf Cub branch of the movement, covering boys 8-12 was not started until 1916 in B.C.

He transferred from a Kerrisdale group to First New Westminster Troop, where he became Scoutmaster until 1922.

From 1930-35 Dr. Kidd was staff geologist for Geological Survey of Canada, doing explorations on Hudson Bay and Great Bear Lake. He joined Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy in 1929, became its president in 1952 for one year.

In addition he is a member of numerous professional and technical organizations, officer or director of three mining firms and a consulting geologist for B.C. Power Commission.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When was the first airplane flight made between England and France?—L.P.

A.—July 25, 1909. On that day Louis Bleriot, a French inventor and aviator, flew the 23.5 miles from Calais to the Shakespeare Cliff, near Dover, in 38 minutes in a monoplane of his own invention. By doing that he won 1,000 pounds sterling offered by the London Daily Mail as a prize for the first aviator to make an unbroken daylight flight across the English Channel. M. 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses Testify Faith in Assembly Here

When and how will the battle of Armageddon come about?

Jehovah's Witnesses in convention here today made these points:

The world's cataclysmic battle will come "in our generation."

Peace will follow after the wicked are destroyed.

The righteous will then live forever in "God's original plan."

Witnesses interviewed on the floor of the Memorial Arena today showed a surprising unanimity of belief. All were willing and happy to talk about their faith.

Witnesses, who claim to be members of one of the fastest-growing bodies of religious believers in the world of today, base their belief largely on the Book of Revelation.

Reference to Armageddon is given in the following Biblical passage, Revelation, Chapter 16, Verses 16 to 20:

"And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon."

"And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air and there came a great voice out of the temple of Heaven, from the throne, saying, 'It is done.'"

"And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great."

"And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell; and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath."

"And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found."

"We believe firmly that Armageddon will strike in our generation," said Donald Dovey, Vancouver. "The Bible gives evidence that it will be brought about by natural forces, which will eliminate wickedness. All persons of good will towards God will be preserved, though affiliation with the true religion is necessary."

At will be a period of tribulation for everyone on earth, he said, and then permanent peace will follow.

Charles F. Martin, Vancouver, said "all signs show Armageddon in this generation."

"He said the world suffers pain today in its conflicts, so 'anything that ends that will be a blessing.'"

"We were created to live on this earth forever, like Adam, and death after Armageddon will end with the removal of those now ruling the earth."

The battle itself will mean

the destruction of nations, said Ames Rosvold, Vancouver, and it will happen "in God's due time." Armageddon itself, he went on, is based on the long range prophecy of Christ.

"It will come 'in this generation,'" said Bill Johnson, Vancouver, and natural forces will bring it about.

"The A-bomb hasn't much power, when compared with earthquakes."

Lorne McGregor, Victoria, said that when the nations say "peace and safety for all, then Armageddon will come."

He said that "Witnesses" are not the judge of who will or who won't be saved in the final destruction, and quoted the Bible to the effect "by their fruits ye shall know them."

He said further "we believe we have the truth, otherwise we'd be hypocrites."

Mrs. Kathleen Ainley, Parksville, said "there are 38 signs pointing to Armageddon, and we are living through the time of the last sign. When Jerusalem is surrounded by armies, flee to the hills."

Thomas Forsyth, Vancouver, said "Matthew 24 and Luke 21 point almost entirely to certain events leading to the approach of Armageddon. These signs started with the First World War and have been continuing. You might say that famines, pestilence and wars are the usual thing anyway, but since 1914 these things have come in condensed form and not stretched over a long period."

S. E. Kilner, Victoria, said "we have a great work to be accomplished before the battle starts, and not even the angels know when this will be. Today's signs show we are rushing towards a climax—crime, delinquency, wars and turmoil."

The huge convention which started here today at 2.45 p.m. has drawn more than 6,000 persons from throughout B.C. and the Pacific Northwest. In the arena 6,500 seats have been placed fronting a beautifully decorated platform with a rainbow background.

Music, classical in tone, is heard between speakers. Many children are attending with parents.

After Wednesday night's lacrosse game, Witnesses scrubbed the entire arena before decorating. The woodwork smells of soap today.

More than 300 cars have been equipped with signs advertising the convention. All persons attending wear blue and white identification tags. During the four-day meet, about 50 separate items will be dealt with, following on the convention theme "Be Blameless as Qualified Ministers."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teen-Age, Too, Benefits From Marathon Plan

Evidently one can feel old at any age. I always have contended that age is much more a state of mind and of health than of years. The following letter is from a 17-year-old girl.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I was chunky as a little girl. Then came the first teen-age years. When I was 12 I hated the way I looked. I was so fat through the middle that I had trouble buying pretty dresses like my friends wore. Everyone said I would outgrow it.

"By the time I was 14 the fat had melted away. I was 15 my friends were having dates but I had none. I know that the kids at school did not mean to be mean but they kidded me about how fat I was.

"Mrs. Lowman, I might as well have been 50 as 15 for all the fun I had, and I was so miserable. I was ashamed of the way I looked and because I never had a boy ask me for a date. I guess I just sort of gave up. I stayed away from the gang as much as possible. It wasn't hard to do since all my girl friends were interested in their boy friends.

"I had been reading 'Why Grow Old?' for a long time and I was fatter. When I was 15 my friends were having dates but I had none. I know that the kids at school did not mean to be mean but they kidded me about how fat I was.

"Mrs. Lowman, I might as well have been 50 as 15 for all the fun I had, and I was so miserable. I was ashamed of the way I looked and because I never had a boy ask me for a date. me to cut my calories to 1800 each day. He told me what foods I must have each day.

"I was so desperate and so full of hope at the same time that I stuck to it and lost 23 pounds. You will never know what this has meant to me because I bet you were never fat like I was when you were my age.

Overweight and physical defects are usually much more damaging to the personality of a teen-ager than to that of the mature woman. The average teen-ager is very sensitive about her appearance. Many mothers make the mistake of failing to realize what really serious repercussions these can have on the future of their daughters.

September in August Preview Seen in Fashions At Women's Symphony Committee Party

There was a hint of autumn in the air, Wednesday, providing a suitable atmosphere for an elegant outdoor showing of fashions for fall, 1956, presented by the T. Eaton Company.

The event took place at Arlow Farm, spacious seaside estate of Capt. and Mrs. Massy Gooden, where the Women's Symphony Committee to the Victoria Symphony Society presented its annual garden party.

Models strolled along the stone patio of the Gooden home, the deep foliage green of rock shrubbery supplementing the feeling of fall.

All the femininity and grace of line held as fashion's newest trends in recent New York showings were reflected in this local presentation.

The words "Regency look... Empire line... Edwardian influence" were spoken again and again by commentator Ida Bianco, who told spectators how fashion is swinging back to past eras.

The Edwardian influence was exemplified in a fitted coat for fall, worn by Pat Gannon. Its dropped back waistline had a slimming effect and the huge "elephant ear" pockets and neat collar accented the luxury Veldyne fabric. With it, Miss Gannon wore the Casablanca cloche of pearl grey beaver.

Salad for Tomorrow

Cucumber and radishes make a good flavor combination and an extra pretty one if they are put together this way. For each side salad take about a quarter of a peeled cucumber and cut it not quite all the way through, in thin slices, making a sort of fan-shape. Between the slices of the cucumber fans place thin radish slices, letting them protrude at the top of the cucumber. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with cream and paprika dressing. To make the dressing, substitute cream for oil in your French dressing recipe and add paprika.

A delicate, rounded collar of purest white mink crowned a distinctive town suit of charcoal grey. Forstmann twined, modelled by petite Ina Harford. A neatly-cut box jacket posed smartly over the straight skirt with single pleat for walking ease. Glazed white feathers hugged her fur felt pillbox hat.

"Top Secret" is the name Ida Bianco used for a brown fashion preferred costume modelled by Helen Biernes. The short box jacket over a slim sheath was removed to reveal a surprise of color on the bodice.

Doris Usher appeared in a gown that was a drifting cloud of aqua nylon tulle, with fitted bodice fully embroidered with iridescent sequins. What looked to be a stole was actually a pair of floating tulle panels, which could be let free to mist over the fullness of the skirt.

To Interior

Among those who traveled to Penikese last weekend for the marriage of Miss Cora Ann Odell and Mr. Rees Barnes were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Don Taylor, Mr. Kenneth James, Mr. and Mrs. William Unwin, Mr. Murray Little, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Kerr, Mr. Merlin Hawes, all of Victoria; the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Barnes, Mr. Fred Christianson and Mr. and Mrs. John Judge of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. Celow of Kamloops.

The New York Restaurant dress was modelled by Times Fashion Editor, Nona Damaske. It was a midnight black sheath with feminine chiffon top. She also wore one of the most outstanding gowns in the show, a beautifully simple creation of ice blue de-lustrated satin with teardrop motif of glistening rhinestones framed in silver beads.

A regal gown of cerise, blue and gold lame was worn by Barbara Hindson. Pure silk chiffon draping swept around the arm to form back interest and the skirt showed below-hip fullness which flowed gracefully as the model walked.

An ensemble for "mother of the bride" in blue Chantilly lace was worn by Mrs. J. Crossley. An Edwardian influenced sheath was styled with bodice draping of organza inset at front with a lace Gillet, dipping to a V at back.

Charles Watson modelled fall's newest clothes for men, and was a handsome escort for several of the models.

Before and after the showing, crowds thronged about interesting stalls arranged on the spacious lawns. Kiddies were entertained by a puppet show given by Mrs. Jessie MacDougall and tea was served throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah opened the affair, which realized $2,400. Mrs. D. Roxburgh was convener, with co-conveners, Mrs. G. W. Lake and Mrs. H. Chisholm. Mrs. A. Laundry was in charge of gate receipts, assisted by Mr. Jack Gillespie, Mr. J. Fraser and Mr. Neil Barraclough.

In charge of stalls were Mrs. G. W. Lake, Mrs. H. K. Burnett, novelties and aprons; Miss Marion Fraser, Mrs. E. Aubrey Walls, home cooking; Mrs. K. Crabtree, Mrs. J. Gillespie, superfluities; Mrs. E. G. Webster, Miss F. M. Compton, candy.

Those convening contests were Mrs. J. Edmonson, Mrs. E. A. Benton, Mrs. H. S. Hurn, Mrs. C. LeFevre, Mrs. C. R. Margison and Mrs. E. Pearman. Girl guides from companies in the Saanich Division assisted members of the committee.

Prince Rupert Girl Wed In Central Baptist Church

Standards of white stocks, gypsophylla and pink and white carnations with tall candlesticks holding white candles, formed a wedding setting in Central Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

Principals were Miss Patricia Margot Brown, daughter of A. Bruce Brown, M.L.A., and Mrs. Brown of Prince Rupert, and Mr. Philip Gordon Ney, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ney, 3074 Oakdene Road, Victoria.

Dr. J. B. Rowell officiated and organ music was played by Clara Mary Chapman. During signing of the register the 23rd Psalm was sung by Miss Shirley Russell.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a charming picture in her gown of white Swiss organdy styled with floor-length, three-tier skirt embroidered in delicate flower and scroll design, and fitted bodice of plain white organdy with tiny cap sleeves and an inset of pleated embroidered organdy framing the neckline in a soft V. A coronet of seed pearls and brilliants held a three-quarter-length veil of misting tulle and the bride carried a shower bouquet of pink rapture roses, stephanotis and white-edged hebe ivy.

Maid of honor, Miss Rose Marie Hartwig, wore turquoise organdy over white tulle, and the bridesmaids, Miss Judy Brown and Miss Sally Ney, sisters of the bride and groom, wore pink organdy over white tulle. Their coronet headbands were of feathered carnations and they carried bouquets of feathered carnations and swansonia.

Best man was Bevan Horton. The groom's brother, Hugh Ney, with Hans Froese, ushered the guests to pews marked with pink and white stocks and white ribbons. Master Douglas Seldon was the ring-bearer.

A reception was held at Olde England Inn, where a three-tier cake topped by a miniature bouquet of pink roses and white sweet peas was flanked by candelabra and cut-glass bowls of the same toned roses and sweet peas.

In Honor of the Bride

Miss Enid Lapham an August bride-elect was honored recently by members of Thunderbird Squadron Chapter, IOE, at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Norman, Cook Street. A corsage of yellow carnations was presented to the bride-elect. Her mother, Mrs. F. Lapham, and Mrs. B. Foster, mother of the groom-elect, received corsages of red and fuchsia-toned carnations, respectively. A container decorated in pastel shades of pink and green held the gifts. Guests were Mrs. F. Lapham, Mrs. B. Foster, Mrs. M. Thomson, Mrs. K. Middleton, Mrs. J. Boughey, Mrs. D. Shubbrook, Mrs. N. Land, Mrs. A. Keddy and Mrs. J. Youlden.

Miss Diane V. Roskelley was honor guest at a miscellaneous shower last Monday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Raymond Johns. On arrival, the bride-elect of this month was presented with a corsage of red roses, while her mother, Mrs. W. E. Roskelley and, mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. F. C. Jeffrey, received yellow and pink carnations, respectively. A ship of good luck which once held shower gifts for her mother, was filled with gifts for Miss Roskelley. Assisting in serving refreshments from a table covered with a lace cloth and centred with a crystal bowl of sweet-peas were Mrs. H. Evans, Mrs. R. Boughey and Miss G. Johns. Others present were Mrs. W. R. Roskelley, Mrs. T. C. Johns, Mrs. S. T. Morrow, Mrs. S. Kinsey, Mrs. C. Hebdon, Mrs. N. Motion, Mrs. K. Deaville, Mrs. H. Henderson, Mrs. M. Lemon, Mrs. M. Burnet, Mrs. L. Jackson, Mrs. F. Witte, Misses S. Hebdon, I. Foot, S. Henderson and C. Deaville.

Rees Barnes Married in Penticton

In the United Church in Penticton, B.C., last Saturday evening, Miss Cora Ann Odell exchanged marriage vows with Rees Vincent Barnes. Rev. Ernest Rands officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Odell of Penticton and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Barnes, formerly of Victoria and now of Vancouver. Pink and white gladioli decorated the church for the wedding and tulle bows and pink and white carnations marked guest pews. Organist was Mrs. Burton and the soloist, Mrs. Estabrook, who sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "Still is the Night."

The bride wore a gown of white brocade styled with slight train and a bodice featuring a Peter Pan collar and tulle-point sleeves. A Juliet cap trimmed with pearls held the full-length veil and her bouquet was sweetheart roses. Only jewelry was white pearl earrings. She was given in marriage by her father.

Bridesmaid, Miss Pauline Foster, wore a blue net gown with headband of pink daisies and carried pink carnations and pink daisies. David Unwin, Victoria, the groom's cousin, was best man, and ushers were William Peterson, Penticton, and Bill Brandson, Vancouver. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Odell in pale blue tulle gown with black accessories, and Mrs. Barnes, wearing aquamarine lace with pink accessories, assisted the young couple in receiving guests.

A profusion of gladioli and snapdragons decorated the rooms and the wedding cake was centred on a table flanked by white candles and sweetheart roses. G. J. Winter proposed the toast to the bride.

A honeymoon is being spent at Sandy Beach lodge at Narkmatia. The bride's going-away ensemble was a champagne-toned, full-skirted dress with white accessories and red carnation corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will live at Shawnigan Lake, V.I.

Bride's Uncle Hears Vows In Salmon Arm Ceremony

Rev. W. O. McKee of Duncan, conducted a double ring wedding ceremony in Salmon Arm's First Baptist Church, when his niece, Sarah Evelyn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Holsworth, became the bride of Ronald Keith Dash, only son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dash, Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the petite bride wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon Chantilly lace over nylon pleated net and satin. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a lace Juliet cap trimmed by net and seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of red sweetheart roses and stephanotis. She wore pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Maid of honor, Miss Thora Ryers, and bridesmaids, Misses Elsie and Marilyn Holsworth, sisters of the bride, were identically gowned in embossed white nylon and carried bouquets of pink gladioli and white stocks.

Little flower girls, Gillian and Allison Cran, wore pink embossed nylon gowns. They carried baskets of white flowers.

Best man was Howard Holsworth, brother of the bride, and ushers were Larry Duncan and Dick File.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. C. L. Holsworth sang "The Wedding Prayer", accompanied by Mrs. G. R. Dawe.

Rev. G. R. Dawe was master of ceremonies at reception in Hedgeman's Hall. Toast to the bride was proposed by J. Maxwell. Mrs. Dawe, accompanied on the violin by Miss Hazel Dawe sang "How Great Thou Art." Greetings from Victoria friends were spoken by A. Simpson.

For a honeymoon—in the United States, the bride chose a blue knitted suit with white nylon topcoat and white accessories, with corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Dash will live in Vernon.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett and Mrs. Adair of Vancouver; also Mr. and Mrs. F. Spencer of York-shire, Eng. Pianist was Mrs. Bowers.

More than 50 members of the Esquimalt Community Club, the Esquimalt Women's Institute and the Carmella Girls' Club gathered recently in the community club hall for a surprise party arranged to honor Mr. and Mrs. R. McVie on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Miss Blanche Lapointe presented a ruby satin-elderdown quilt to the honor couple on behalf of those present and Mrs. Ethel Hopwood presented a bouquet of red carnations from the girls of the Carmella Club.

An inscribed anniversary cake with miniature bride and groom centred the table, which was also decorated with red and white sweet peas. Refreshments were served and games and singing enjoyed.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett and Mrs. Adair of Vancouver; also Mr. and Mrs. F. Spencer of York-shire, Eng. Pianist was Mrs. Bowers.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Swimming is the highlight of the summer for the Cub Scouts at Camp Barnard, Sooke, where 42 Wolf Cubs from the Victoria district are camping for five days.

Owing to the forest closure they are unable to go for hikes, but the boys are taught plaster moulding and making of "toggles" by instructors.

There are two sub-camps under leadership of an Akela. Each camp runs its own schedule.

All have meals at the same time in the new dining shelter that has been built this summer, which gives the cooks a better opportunity to accommodate a large number of boys.

The eight service scouts in camp are taking care of the chores and repairing the sheds and floats that had been damaged by vandals.

Bob Mills is the camp chief and with him are six assistants.

Mrs. J. Pitrie and Charlot Ann Baddie are doing the cooking for the boys.

The Cubs will return home on Saturday next.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Maureen Murphey, aged 13, of Boise, Idaho, for her question:

What Causes Mildew?

A patch of mildew is made by the little garbage men. They have their orders from Mother Nature. Break down this and that into tiny fragments of rot and decay. Digest the fragments and turn them into simple chemicals. New plants need these chemicals to flourish and grow. New animals are waiting to feed on the growing plants. Without little garbage men such as the mildews, life would come to a stop. There would be no decay to turn old stuff into new food supplies.

However, the mildews sometimes seem to take their work too seriously. They attack living plants and break down their tissues. Other mildews attack leather, wallpaper and even the plaster. Still others specialize in disposing of linens and clothes.

All mildews are minute members of the plant world. They belong to the fungi family, cousins of the mushrooms. Those that feed on living plants are called parasites. Those that feed on dead stuff such as leather, linen and paper are called saprophites.

Mildew will arrive when you leave a damp cloth rolled up for a few days. When you open it, there are the patches of tell-tale bluish green. Leave it longer, and the patches will crumble away with rot. The little garbage men are just doing the job they were ordered to do.

How did they get inside the rolled-up cloth? Mildews and their kin are spread spores. These are little seed bodies far smaller than the smallest speck of dust. They are everywhere adrift in the air, even over the vast ocean. The spores can start new plants and the plants can also multiply by cell division. No doubt the patch of mildew on the cloth was spread by using both methods.

Bridge Results

Winners of duplicate bridge session Tuesday were: North-South, Ethel Cleworth and Jack Goldie, Bill Simpson-Baikie and Sam Duprau, Elizabeth Warren and Les Stewart, Frank Artlett, Tony Marsh, Eric Goodwin and Jim Duprau (tie); East-West, Eleanor McKee and Freda Small, Molly Collins and Dora Duprau, Ernie Allen and Harry Parry, Elsie Edmonds and Doug Howard.

What is inside the earth?

Imagine standing on a fiery ball of white hot metal some 4,000 miles in diameter. That, say the experts, is most likely what the centre of the earth is like. Scared? They also tell us that it is safely bottled up under miles of solid rock.

The weight of the outer layers of rock on the earth's core is about 45,000,000 pounds to each square inch. That seems plenty of material to cage the fiery furnace. It is also enough pressure to reduce the white hot metal to a sort of plastic state, neither gas, solid nor liquid.

The earth keeps her heaviest materials nearest the centre. Such heavy stuff would naturally sink towards the centre of gravity. Of course, nobody has been down there to see what conditions are like. The guesses are based on certain known facts. And waves from earthquake shocks seem to bear out the theory.

Rimanoczy Quartet Draws Crowd of 600

Playing to approximately 600 persons, one of the largest audiences to turn out to a summer concert, the Rimanoczy Quartet offered a versatile and artistic program at Oak Bay Junior High school Wednesday night.

Their program opened with a quartet in C major by Mozart, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the composer, and included quartets by modern composer John Murrill, Mendelssohn's Allegretto in E minor, "Air of an Irish Melody" (Bridge), and a quartet movement by Franz Schubert.

Members of the Vancouver quartet are Jean de Rimanoczy and John Chumney, violin; Smythe Humphreys, viola; and Malcolm Tait, cello.

Movie Pioneer Dies
CHICAGO (AP)—Pioneer movie maker Harry Aitken, 69, Waukegan, Wis., died Wednesday. Aitken produced 2,500 silent movies during his career. His most famous picture—made in collaboration with D. W. Griffiths—was "Birth of a Nation," released in 1915. He also was president of the corporation which made the rollicking Keystone Cops series.

Pageant to Show School History At Gordon Head

Gordon Head School PTA is planning a fall pageant to illustrate highlights of the first 40 years of the school's life.

"We want to contact as many as possible of the students and teachers that attended the school between 1891 and 1931," said Mrs. A. M. Hope and Mrs. J. MacKay, who have charge of arrangements.

The students will be grouped into their old classes for the scenes to be produced, and it is hoped to have the actual teachers take part. The first school was a one-room building on Tyndall avenue, that was torn down. Fire destroyed the second in 1925, and the third building erected on the same spot still stands. The modern school is at Kenmore road and Torquay drive.

Former students interested in the pageant may reach Mrs. Hope at 7-2734, and Mrs. MacKay at 7-2349.

Vancouver's 1958 Festival Salzburg, Stratford Rival

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nicholas Goldschmidt, appointed today as artistic director of the Vancouver Festival Society, announced that Canadian author Lister Sinclair has been commissioned to write a dramatic play for the society's first annual presentation in 1958.

Mr. Goldschmidt, spending the summer in Vancouver as director of music for the University of British Columbia summer school of fine arts, is musical director of the opera school at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

The first presentation of the society—planned to parallel in scope such established events as the Edinburgh, Salzburg and Stratford festivals—will be held in 1958 in conjunction with British Columbia's centennial.

"Our goal is a simple one," Mr. Goldschmidt said. "We'll settle for nothing less than the best, be it Canadian or international."

He announced that Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, associated with early successes of the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean festival, will be invited to produce and direct at least one play.

Mr. Goldschmidt, 47, is Belgian-born and has held many musical posts in Canada, the United States and Europe. Since 1951 he has been musical director of the Toronto Opera Festival.

Eden Moves Forces to Suez Region, Calls Up Some Reservists

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Folks!
Catching Up on My Notes
—When we went out to the airport last night to meet Cliff Lumsdon, I was all ready to give him a sisterly hand-shake. After all, The Chief is married now and to the former Joan Cooke, one of my best girl friends.

But when Cliff stepped off the plane, he said, "Hi, Shorty," and gave me a peck on the cheek. We had to repeat the performance three times for the benefit of photographers and then Cliff embarrassed the daylight out of me by enquiring loudly, "Any more photographers around?"

Sarcasm? The Chief has enough for two people. I was driving him in from the airport and the first time I stopped for a stop sign, Cliff said sweetly, "Your driving certainly has improved."

The worst part of my training swim is when I come out of the water and land at the Oak Bay Boathouse. It's not the water or the swimming that gets me. It's that tantalizing smell of hamburgers and onions frying in butter that wafts down from the coffee shop. And I can't have any.

When we came in from our six-hour swim the other day, we met a Victoria man at the jetty. His name was Ken Lloyd and he had a piece of rolled-up paper in his hand. He showed it to Gus and me and, of all things, it was a Lakeshore Swimming Club certificate, signed by Gus, stating that Ken Lloyd had passed the Lakeshore 50-foot swimmer test 18 years ago. Did someone say something about a small world?

I had my hair trimmed at the Hilda Beauty Salon yesterday and they were so nice to me that I became even more convinced than ever that Victoria people are among the nicest in the world.

CCF Talks Warm

See also Page 3

WINNIPEG (CP)—The CCF national convention today bogged down for more than an hour in debate over the party's proposed new draft of principles calling for support of private business.

Long discussion on one paragraph of the new declaration uncovered wide divergence of opinion among delegates and indicated how sharp the political right the CCF is planning to turn. Swift adoption of 13 paragraphs of the new declaration, which is to supersede the 1933 Regina Manifesto, was held up with sometimes heated speeches on a section that advocated aid and opportunity to private enterprise "which can make a useful contribution to the development of our economy."

The section originally gave CCF approval to "increased opportunities and security for private business." However, about 200 delegates carried an amendment moved by George Grube of Toronto changing the wording to:

"The CCF, therefore, will provide appropriate opportunities for private business..."

Obviously touching on a theoretical sore spot, debate continued on other sentences and possible distortion of their meaning. Fred Tipping of Winnipeg said he "shudders" to think of how he will explain the role of free enterprise in a co-operative commonwealth society. He urged the convention to change the clause to make clear private business was needed only during a "transition period" to socialism.

This immediately drew opposition from Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, CCF national chairman David Lewis, Alec MacDonald of Vancouver and J. E. Cooper of Regina. Mr. MacDonald said the proposed change was "dangling a noose before the eyes of business men." They were faced with the alternative of being swallowed up by big monopolies or having a CCF government do away with them.

Premier Douglas gave perhaps the strongest defence of private enterprise. "Socialism and state ownership are not synonymous terms," he said. "Nowhere have we said public ownership is the only means of enriching the life of the people."

MANY IN MIDDLE
Great sections of the Canadian people were middle class, small business owners, he added. They were not the "discontented proletariat" of early Europe. Premier Douglas continued: "The element of choice is desirable in an economy. Where choice is taken away then freedom is lost."

However, Charlie Biesack, Winnipeg delegate, pleaded that the CCF should not place itself in Liberal hands. Support came from Spencer Cheshire, Durham, Ont., who charged that some party members were being swayed by capitalist propaganda. He objected to an economy half Socialist and half free enterprise.

But Mr. Lewis claimed the idea must be abandoned that free enterprise must be merely tolerated. "We must favor its growth in making a contribution to society. In the half of the world where it has been abolished a totalitarian government now exists."

EXPECTING IN FEBRUARY

Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco is expecting a baby in February, Prince Rainier proudly told his people in a radio broadcast today. The beautiful movie actress and the Monaco prince were married last April 18. Joy among the Monegasques is unbounded today—an heir to the throne will bring continued freedom from French taxes and military service.

BALL GAME, SUPPER, FILM

Air Cadets Host Oakalla Prisoners

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—Twenty-six prisoners from Oakalla prison, accompanied by six unarmed guards wearing sports clothes, visited the Royal Canadian Air Cadet camp here Wednesday.

The visit was part of a new rehabilitation program to bridge the gap between prison and civilian life. The prisoners, who did not wear prison uniforms, were mostly members of the Oakalla Cubs softball team, and played a game with a cadet team at the camp. It was halted because of rain.

The men were allowed to mix and chat freely with cadets. They had supper on arrival and saw a film before playing softball.

They were under the guidance of senior correction officers Graham Watt and Bob Burns. The prisoners were carefully screened. A visit was paid to Abbotsford last year, but Wednesday was the first time the ball team was accompanied by spectators.

Station commander at the Abbotsford camp, Wing Cmdr. F. W. MacDonnell, said "We are delighted to be able to ask the men from Oakalla to visit us."

30 Die in Revolt

EGUCIGAIPA, Honduras (AP)—Extra troops patrolled the Honduran capital today in the wake of an abortive seven-hour revolt that claimed at least 30 lives. But citizens used to sporadic outbreaks went about their business as usual.

$27,000 Swim Pot

TORONTO (CP)—The Lake Ontario marathon swim committee said here its projected swim across the lake will start as soon as possible after Aug. 23 and will carry $27,000 in prize money.

LAST SOLDIER DIES

Albert Woolson, 109-year-old lone survivor of Abe Lincoln's grand army of the republic, in the war between the states, died today at St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth, Minn. Woolson was a drummer boy in the army of the north during the war of 1861-65.

RAIN BRINGS OPENING OF ISLAND FORESTS

Lifting of the forest closure was announced at noon today by Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston.

It means that the woods are open again to hikers and sportsmen and to Girl Guides and Boy Scouts who had postponed their summer camps.

Woods had been totally closed for the public and partially closed for loggers who may now resume operations full swing.

Heavy rains overnight and this morning made the forests safe for travel. (See story on page 15.)

Amy in Trouble Near Strait Goal

Amy Hiland was exactly five miles from Victoria at 2 p.m. this afternoon, but was in trouble in her second attempt to swim from Port Angeles to Victoria.

Earlier, under ideal water conditions, the Californian caught a strong flood-tide and made good progress past Race Rocks.

She was radar checked at 2 p.m. by the ferry Kalakala. The swimmer was reported cold, tired and had lost her sense of direction. Three times in the last hour she inquired where she was.

Mrs. Hiland, who was pulled out of the water less than two miles from Victoria, suffering from complete exhaustion and near-hysteria in her first try July 13, started today's swim from Ediz Hook at 5:38 a.m. By 9:30 she was stroking through a moderate chop and had crossed the international boundary.

By 10:30, her 52-beat stroke had taken her nine miles out from her starting point on a slightly tacking course and she had been in the water four hours and 50 minutes.

HOURLY FEEDINGS
Mrs. Hiland was taking hourly feedings of a mixture comprising warm milk, Ovaltine, maple syrup and dextrose.

She started to receive the benefit of the flood tide at 10:45 and by 11:30 had swum 11 miles and was 7 1/2 miles in a direct line from Port Angeles.

By 12:30, the 1 1/2-knot flood tide was pushing her towards Victoria and she was going through a slight rip-tide off Race Rocks.

COULD IT HAPPEN HERE?

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government backs the principle of international control of the Suez Canal and hopes it can be done under United Nations auspices. External Affairs Minister Pearson outlined that stand in the Commons Wednesday and followed it up with an intimation that the Western Big Three hope to settle the Egyptian crisis without use of force.

Mr. Pearson spoke in a one-day external affairs debate in which the fast-developing Suez question bulked large. He said the government supports international control of the vital waterway "with the countries having the greatest interest in the operation of the canal sharing in that control, preferably, if this turns out to be practicable, under the aegis of the United Nations."

ENDANGER LIFELINE

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative spokesman, said Canada should announce it is giving moral support to the Big Three powers in their stand against Egypt's move. Closing of the canal would endanger Britain's lifeline in its fight against Russia's economic offensive.

Alistair Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North) agreed the UN should control the canal and A. B. Patterson (SC—Fraser Valley) said the proposal has merit. The Social Credit spokesman said something should be done to curb the "enthusiasm" of Egypt's President Nasser.

The debate raised again the issue of Israel's long-pending application for government approval of a purchase of some 24 Sabre jet aircraft. Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Stewart and the Commons only Jewish member, Leon Crestohl (L—Montreal Cartier), all urged that the shipment be approved.

Mr. Pearson said the government wants to be pretty certain the shipment "will be conducive to security and stability in the area."

He also elaborated on the purpose of recent talks by Canada with two or three other governments on arms shipments to Israel.

The talks were conducted "not to concerting a plan or a collective agreement governing shipments of arms of Israel but with a view to seeing whether the responsibilities in this matter can be shared and whether our plans and our policies are in agreement."

Britons Warned To Quit Egypt

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced she is moving land, sea and air force units to the eastern Mediterranean in the Suez Canal crisis and has advised British nationals in Egypt to get out of the country.

These stern moves were announced in quick succession as the Big Three foreign ministers completed a plan for internationalizing the Suez Canal, nationalized by Egypt. (United Press quoted "informed sources" as saying the plan includes an unwritten understanding Britain would be responsible for keeping the waterway open until international control begins.)

Prime Minister Eden told a hushed House of Commons that reserve troops are being called up and naval, army and air force units are moving into the eastern Mediterranean "to deal with any situation that may arise."

The Queen tonight signed proclamation orders calling up specialist soldiers from the reserve for emergency duties in the Mediterranean.

'Anything Could Happen...' Lloyd

The crisis developments came as U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Christian Pineau neared the end of their talks on a plan to internationalize control of the vital Suez waterway.

Lloyd told Commons "we are in broad agreement with our French and American allies on this matter."

"It is a very serious situation. Many British subjects are in Egypt. Many British ships are approaching the canal. It is a situation in which anything could happen..."

Lloyd said Britain is determined to be "absolutely firm" in its dispute with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"We feel that this great international waterway is not to be left at the mercy, caprices, or spleen or hatreds of one power or one man," he said. In his opening address, Eden said the military moves serve as "a precautionary measure."

France Readies Show of Force

Eden said Britain also would recall to duty "a strictly limited number of men who are specialists and skilled for certain essential tasks."

Eden told the Commons these measures had been taken "to strengthen our position in the eastern Mediterranean and our ability to deal with any situation which may arise."

The military moves, he continued, were taken "in view of the situation created by the action of the Egyptian government" in nationalizing the canal on which "the industrial life of Western Europe literally depends."

The prime minister charged that nationalization of the canal violated the 1954 British-Egyptian treaty which provides for the nature of the Suez Canal Zone and under which Britain withdrew her troops from the zone.

That treaty, Eden said, recognized that the canal was "a waterway economically, commercially and strategically of international importance."

FRANCE ALERTS FLEET
"How can this be reconciled with the Egyptian government's action against the Suez Canal Company?" he demanded.

Meanwhile, in Paris the French navy ministry said units of the fleet assembled at the Mediterranean port of Toulon had been ordered to get ready to weigh anchor "for an unknown destination."

An official source who declined to allow publication of his identity said the order was in connection with the Suez crisis.

Reports from Toulon said some 15 warships were in the harbor there, including the 35,000-ton battleship Jean Bart, the cruiser Georges Leygues, a group of aircraft carriers and several destroyers.

Officials in Toulon said the order to get under way had not yet been given to the ships but that little time would be needed for them to sail if it came.

The London Evening News says Prime Minister Eden's government had prepared an order authorizing the fleet to move.

TOPS IN TEENS

Myrna Hunter Runs in Circles But Gets There Just the Same

A summertime feature, Tops in Teens, will seek to focus the spotlight on Victoria and district teenagers who are representative of the great majority of our fine young people.

One girl who "ran around in circles" still managed first-class honors at the end of her freshman year at Victoria College.

Myrna Hunter, 17, is next year's president of WUGS—the Women's Undergraduate Society—and was active in bowling, jazz and glee clubs last year. She also played basketball for the college women's team and edited the club's section of the Tower yearbook.

Towards the end of the year, her schedule became rather hectic, but, says Myrna, "I run around in circles all year. I'm used to it."

Although she admits she is not particularly efficient and gets "just as muddled as anyone," she maintains a high standard in her studies.

Her average at Christmas was 85.5 per cent, and in June, 84 per cent. Her June marks were: physics, 86 per cent; French, 83; chemistry, 85; English, 84; and math, 82.

Myrna attended first year college on scholarships from the Canadian Women's Club and the IODE. For her freshman average, she won the Robert V. Anderson memorial scholarship.

To ensure high marks, Myrna plans to cut down activities next term.

"I think I'll cut out sports," she said. "I'm not really good at them anyway."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hunter, 363 Klover Street.

Jockey Jailed Five Years For Extortion

VANCOUVER (CP)—Roy Calvin Eustace, 28, former jockey from Torbay, Nfld., was sentenced Wednesday to five years imprisonment on a charge of attempting to extort $20,000 from Jack Diamond, Vancouver meat packer-sportsman.

"The pre-sentence report shows you have had few advantages but you still knew what you were doing and understood it thoroughly," said Magistrate Oscar Orr in sentencing Eustace.

"The opinion has been expressed that you would not have carried out your threats. That does not help the person threatened. I have to deal severely with you, not only as punishment but as an example to others."

Eustace was arrested after Diamond, co-operating with police, planted three dummy packages at designated spots in response to a series of telephone calls and letters threatening death to his family.

The last package, containing $2,000 in actual money, was found in Eustace's possession when the arrest was made.

MOHAMMED MOSSADEGH

Ex-Premier Leaves Jail Saturday

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Former Iranian premier Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh will be released from prison Saturday, a spokesman of the Military Governor's Office said today.

The spokesman said in an interview that Mossadegh was today told to "pack up" his belongings—mainly some 200 medical and legal books—crowding his small cell in Ghassehr Barracks in North Tehran.

Mossadegh was sentenced Dec. 21, 1953, to three years solitary confinement after conviction by a military court on 13 charges of attempting to overthrow the Shah's regime and illegally dissolving parliament. Time served awaiting trial counted toward his sentence.

2-Pound Bullhead Wins Fish Derby

More than 500 youngsters and spectators turned out to city playground's annual fishing derby off the breakwater Wednesday afternoon—but only nine fish were caught.

Top winner was Guy Price, who pulled in a two-pound bullhead, to win first prize of a split-cane rod and case. Other winners were Roger Penner, 11, and Michael Harrison, 10, who each received prizes of a reel and line.

Dr. Carl Clifford of the provincial museum of natural history described the winning fish as an unusually large fish. Salt-water bullheads are a variety of sculpin, described as "marine bullheads" to distinguish them from the fresh-water catfish, also called a bullhead.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT CHECKED BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Embassy at Cairo has been asked to report on the number of Canadian citizens in Egypt, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He added, however, that he hopes the request will not indicate there is "any special crisis or emergency" in that country.

The minister said he has had no confirmation that Britain has issued a warning to its citizens to leave Egypt, but Canada is making inquiries about that.

orizing the minister of transport to requisition any passenger ships needed for sudden troop movements. The transport ministry would neither confirm nor deny the reports, but British troops at home and in the Mediterranean area already have been alerted for quick action in case of violence in the Suez.

U.S. ON FRINGE
Strong demands for military action to keep the Suez Canal open have been made in London and Paris since Nasser announced last week Egypt was nationalizing the strategic waterway. But expectations of military action declined in the British capital since U. S. State Secretary Dulles arrived. He is reported to have said the United States would not join in.

Diplomatic experts worked through the night in London preparing the draft of the proposal for an international conference on the Suez to which the countries using the canal must be invited, along with Egypt and the Soviet Union.

Under the plan, the Western Big Three would call a conference of interested countries to be held within a few weeks, perhaps in London.

With the invitation would go a proposal for what French informants described as an international organization to "manage" the canal. British sources said the proposed organization would "control or supervise" the vital 103-mile waterway.

CAIRO SILENT
There was no official comment from Cairo on the Big Three's plan. But observers in the Egyptian capital were convinced President Nasser would reject any form of international control which would appear to infringe on Egyptian sovereignty.

These sources said Nasser could not afford to appear to yield to Western pressure after skyrocketing his prestige in the Arab world by announcing the nationalization of the Suez Canal Company.

Some observers in Cairo believed, however, that Nasser might accept an expansion of the nine-power international Convention of 1888 which guarantees freedom of all shipping through the canal.

Boys who take part in the August 15 Navy Day, sailor-for-a-day cruise aboard RCN warships will be treated to a live ammunition shoot by some of the short-range weapons aboard the ships.

Naval officials thought heavy calibre guns would not be fired while the youngsters were aboard due to shock of the heavy blasts.

Boys aged 10 to 16 have almost completed the Times-sponsored complement of 700, but there are still some vacancies for youngsters who make fast application for the trip.

The attached coupon must be used, but applicants do not need to be Victoria residents nor do they have to be Times subscribers.

All that is necessary is to clip the coupon, fill in name, age, address, a parent's signature and the signature of any sailor of the RCN. Mail or deliver the completed coupon, addressed to "Sailor-for-a-Day, c/o The Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria.

Cruise ships, including a cruiser, destroyers, frigates and minesweepers, will leave Ogden Point Outer Wharf at 11:30 a.m. on Navy Day. Lists of successful applicants and boarding instructions will be published in the Times.

The Shabby House

THE Shabby house is on a shabby street far removed from the flowery baskets and the regular track of the tallboys.

It's cinnamon-colored and sagging a bit, and I noticed it first on a hot, hot day last summer. Two girls in their early teens were standing on the unkempt grass beside the rickety steps, and yelling at one another, virago-fashion, with arms akimbo.

The sight of physical anger always makes me feel sick, especially when it's women with their tempers out of control, but I took in as many details as I could while I hurried by. I noticed the straggly grass, the lidded garbage can half-hidden behind a decrepit trellis. I noticed the broken window stuffed up with yellowed newspaper, and the grimy curtains that looked as if they hadn't been washed for months.

Ruth

The two girls were about as unlike as they could be. The dark-haired one was plump and busty, and quite seductive in an over-ripe kind of way. I mentally jotted down the very dangle earrings, the toenails that were crimson, edged with black, the high-heeled white sandals that could have done with a thorough cleaning.

The other girl was fair and thin with a scrawny little chest, and a prim and pinched-up face.

"I hate you," yelled the dark girl. "Always telling tales and getting people into trouble."

"You'd better not say you hate me,"

YOUR HEALTH

Overworked Probation Officers

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Recently, in Los Angeles, the County Probation Officer, Karl Holton, said that in his city there is a "hard core of problem families" (all well-known to welfare workers), people who are unable to take care of themselves, and hence must always be causing trouble for the social workers.

Mr. Holton said that there is a critical need for more family counseling. Unless the probation officer can do something constructive about these problem people he cannot cut down on the amount of crime, and he cannot save the public moneys. Mr. Holton told some 200 leaders in various welfare fields that two of the greatest problems that face him are a lack of counseling service for 21,000 delinquents who, if locked up, would terribly overcrowd our jails and prisons. As he said, nowadays every probation officer has a "case load" of problem persons so much larger than he can attend to, that it is impossible for him to give counseling to the people who are desperately in need of help. One difficulty is that probation officers cannot get proper psychiatric help for many of the mentally muddled persons who have been put under their care.

Dr. Alvarez

THE PREGNANT WOMAN WITH HEART DISEASE

According to my old friend, Dr. C. Sidney Burwell, of Harvard, who for much of a long life has made a special study of heart disease in pregnant women, in almost all instances she can be carried through successfully, and she can have her baby. The old idea that heart disease usually calls for an early termination of a pregnancy is generally untrue. In a recent report, Dr. Burwell and his associates said that in the Boston Lying-in Hospital about half of the pregnant women found there with heart disease had never known they had any trouble with their heart. They had never been to a doctor. Some 88 per cent had the scars of rheumatic heart disease, and in two-thirds of these cases the trouble was due to a narrowing of the very important mitral valve. In one in 10 cases the heart disease was congenital in origin.

The reason why doctors worry about heart trouble in a woman who wants a baby is that pregnancy puts added strain on her body. It

"shrilled the fair child with a quiver of tears in her voice. 'I'm the only one in the block you haven't quarreled with. If you fight with me, you won't have anyone left.'"

"I don't care," screamed the dark girl. "I hate you. I hate you all. I hate the whole world if you want to know."

And that's where I passed out of earshot, feeling dreadful because, in a city, you can't interfere, and there's really nothing you can do. (In a small town it's different. There isn't the impersonality of the city.)

But somehow I've never been able to forget them or the feeling of hatred and unhappiness in the air on that hot summer afternoon.

The next time I noticed the house, really noticed it, was on a lovely day this spring.

A purple lilac was blooming by the porch and the whole house had a different sort of air, though I didn't register any actual details.

A boy and girl were sitting on the steps. A thoroughly nice boy and girl, I'd say. They were talking quietly and looking at one another in the way the young do when they're hopelessly in love.

It was the contrast in atmosphere that impressed me most—the change from hatred to love.

But how much lies in my imagination, I don't know.

That's the tantalizing part of living in a city. You never really know the true story. You seldom hear the end.

But both those incidents could have been scenes in a movie, a Marry-ish movie, about quite ordinary people.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

increases, by about 40 per cent, the amount of blood that has to be pumped each day. Occasionally, with pregnancy, there may come a flare-up of the old infection of the heart valves. Naturally, the woman with heart disease often needs extra care during her pregnancy. She may get an anemia that has to be corrected.

Occasionally, when the heart fails a bit, the woman has to be bled. Dr. Burwell said that his 300 patients had had 375 pregnancies, with only three fatalities. This certainly is a wonderful record. Dr. Burwell rarely advises a therapeutic abortion, or early termination of the pregnancy. Also, he rarely resorts to cesarean section.

OPERATIONS ON THE HEART

At the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, Dr. B. L. Brofman reported that in the last 57 cases in which he and his group operated on the heart of a man who had suffered a coronary thrombosis they had not lost a single case. This report of success with the Beck operation is interesting for two reasons. One is that it is good to know that something can be done for those persons who, after a heart attack suffer much from pain and disability; and it is good to know that commonly a man who has had a bad heart attack can come through a severe operation on his heart. This means that many persons with a bad heart need not be too fearful when they are forced to have an operation on gallstones, or a cancer.

Naturally, not all the persons who have had a heart attack can stand an operation. Everything depends on what we physicians call their "cardiac reserve." To illustrate: Some men, after a coronary thrombosis, can walk along the street about as rapidly as they did before, without much shortness of breath, and without pain. A less fortunate man, with a poor cardiac reserve, will get short of breath and may get pain on walking slowly, or going up stairs, or even as he sits quietly in his chair at home. He may get distressed if he tries to lie flat at night. In such cases, we physicians say that the man's rope is short, and this is far more significant for his future than is the appearance of his electrocardiograms.

Often in these cases a good heart specialist hardly looks at the electrocardiograms. What he wants to know is how far the man can walk without getting pain or distress. The heart is a pump, and one can judge best of its efficiency by finding out how well and comfortably it pumps when put under strain.

$1 MILLION MUSEUM CENTENARY PROJECT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver centennial committee will be asked to approve a $1,000,000 museum to house city archives and the RCMP Arctic patrol vessel St. Roch as its official project in the 1958 B.C. celebrations.

A special group headed by Ald. George Cunningham reported to the board of administration Wednesday that it recommends approval in principle of the scheme.

The city was asked to set aside $300,000 towards building costs and to earmark a further $240,000 available as a provincial government grant.

HOME GARDEN

Now's Best Season For Shrub Cuttings

Somewhere between mid-July and the end of August lies the best period to propagate shrubs from cuttings.

Which week it will be is not definite because the seasons vary growth and ripening of wood and shrub varieties with them.

It is always a gamble, even for those whose livelihood depends on the propagation of plants, with every cutting rooting one season and few the next.

There are no rules, charts, nor mathematical tables for the gardener to follow, although there is an instinct which develops if cuttings are taken over a period of years. It is something which cannot be reduced to words.

Undoubtedly, the home gardener has the advantage because he needs but a few cuttings and therefore can give individual attention and suitable conditions to each. He can also take a few cuttings each week and thus be sure one batch will take.

There is an approximate way of telling when growths are ready to make cuttings, although it does not indicate they will root.

A selected shoot is bent around the finger until U-shaped. If it is not ripe it will bend easily with no resistance; if too ripe it will break. The near perfect condition is when it is stiff enough to fracture without parting.

This is far from infallible, but it has been a guide for many beginners.

Boy, 11, Saved By Chum When Boat Capsizes

SIDNEY—An 11-year-old yachtsman escaped with a dunking Wednesday when his 13-foot sailboat capsized in Shoal Harbor.

Mark Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dickinson, was rescued by his chum, Dickie Gile, 10, who was sailing alongside.

The mishap occurred when a sudden gust of wind tipped over Mark's Penguin-class craft, throwing him into the water.

Dickie, who was about 30 feet away, skillfully manoeuvred his Penguin into the wind and reached his friend quickly. The boats were about half a mile from shore at the time.

The accident was witnessed by Mrs. Dickinson, operator with her husband of the Van Isle Marina. Mr. Dickinson rushed out to the boats and brought the boys back in a power boat.

"ON THE AIR"

For the G.F. I felt a very great pity.

Because, as chairman of a Publicity Committee,

By MAURICE HUMBER

Part of her job was to "go on the air." And drag 5 other nice ladies there. Well—the nite before, she couldn't sleep.

So she got up and walked the floor. Even did her washing in her Thor.

Then came the morn, to the Station she went. Aft haggard & worn & her eyes of lament.

The ladies sat, all full of mis-giving.

The Announcer was full of the joy of living.

'Twas a give-away show... Jarvex & prizes.

And where even our competition advertised.

Ad-libs and laughter & a pound of free tea.

The G.F. was shaking... holding each knee.

Then there she was... in front of the "mike."

She felt she'd been socked with a mar-linspike.

She didn't collapse, his ad-libs she met.

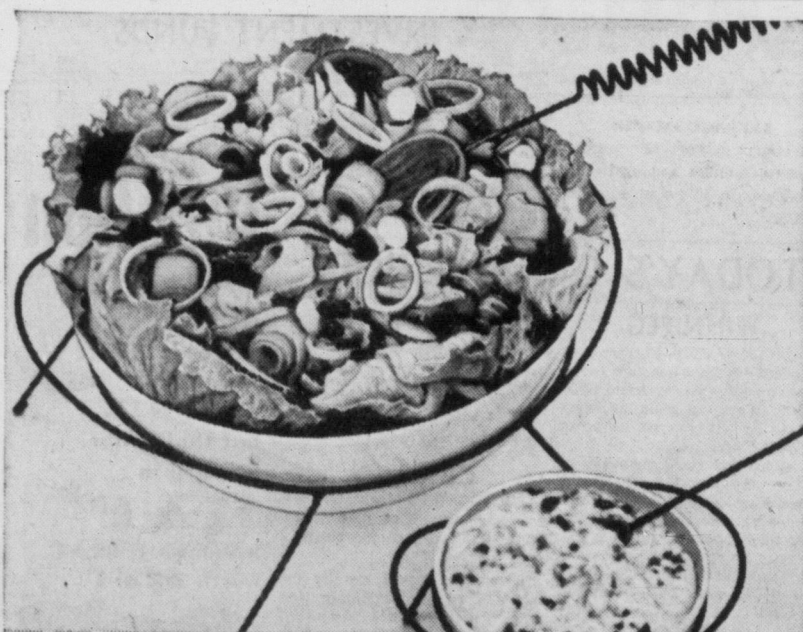

Then returned to her seat, all soaking wet.

When it was over... and she that all clinched.

She went out to the car... and FOUND SHE WAS PINCHED.

CELLULOSE TIE-UP ENDED

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)

A wildcat strike by 250 employees of Columbia Cellulose Ltd. at nearby Watson Island was settled late Wednesday, one week after the walkout began.

Some 300 workers made idle by the strike returned to work this morning.

The walkout began July 25 over the firing of a bricklayer 15 days earlier.

CALGARY (CP)

Any further deals in the settlement of the U.S. steel strike would seriously threaten completion of a gas pipeline gathering system in Alberta for the trans-Canada pipeline to eastern Canada, officials of the Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. Ltd. said Wednesday.

One official said that already it probably is too late for pipe to be rolled in time to complete laying of the trunk line before winter. If this line is not completed no gas will be available for export from Alberta even if the trans-Canada line is completed on schedule.

Australia Trade Deficit, Reduced

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)

Australia reduced the deficit in her balance of payments by 164,000,000 Australian ($179,000,000) in the financial year ending June 30, the federal treasury information department announced. This reduced the deficit to 478,000,000 Australian ($218,000,000).

Alcoa gained 2 points while Kaiser Aluminum was up beyond a point. Santa Fe with 2-point loss pulled down a rail group.

Amerasia, a big domestic oil producer, was ahead about 2 points. Gulf and Royal Dutch with their heavy holdings in the Near East slipped a point or so as news came that Britain and France were taking "precautionary" military measures in the Suez Canal crisis.

AT MONTREAL

Industrials moved firmly forward today on the Montreal stock exchange in moderately active afternoon trading.

Banks were a highlight as Montreal advanced 2 1/2 while Royal and Nova Scotia gained 1 1/2. In the steels Atlas jumped two points as Page-Hersey firming one.

AT LONDON the stock market was quiet today with operators watching the Commons debate on the Suez situation. The undertone was satisfactory although an easier trend developed following Prime Minister Eden's statement on Middle East policy.

Canadian issues were in renewed demand under the lead of International Nickel. Oils were easier and fell further following Eden's statement.

Bennett Again Hints Election

Premier Bennett, accepting unanimous nomination as Social Credit candidate in his home town of Kelowna Wednesday night, once again dropped hints that a provincial election is coming shortly.

But he did not, as some high Social Crediters expected, name the actual date for the contest at the polls.

The premier, smiling mischievously, almost teased his audience about the election date, according to a Canadian Press report. Social Crediters were celebrating the fourth anniversary of the government's taking office in Aug. 1952.

"We must have an election from time to time," he said. "You have them in any free Commonwealth country. They are held at any time, and any movement or government scared of cold water, must be ready to face the issue."

ALL READY NOW

"We are all ready tonight. Social Credit celebrations are going on all over the province—and birthday—candles are flashing hope across the country."

House-to-house enumeration of voters in three Greater Vancouver ridings—Vancouver Centre, Burrard and North Vancouver—began Tuesday.

It is expected that Social Credit candidates will have been nominated by the end of August in nearly every one of the 42 electoral districts throughout the province.

The premier wore a triumphant grin when he rose to address an audience of more than 500 people packing Kelowna's Aquatic Ballroom. Saying that an election must come "sooner, or later," he cautioned his supporters against over-criticizing the Opposition.

PUT OUT BANNERS

"Don't argue with anyone," he urged. "As we go into an election, put out banners telling the people to vote for progress not politics."

Mr. Bennett reviewed the government's achievements as he has done many times at press conferences in Victoria.

He said legislation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature giving every homeowner a $28 rebate on taxes.

"Never before has this been done in the world. The government will pay taxes on the first $1,000 assessment of every home in the province. This averages out at $28. Municipalities will bill the government for this amount."

COST $8 MILLION

"The cost of the scheme in the first year will be $8,000,000. Where is the money coming from? My answer is where did the money go before?"

Mr. Bennett claimed that the provincial debt has been reduced from $200,000,000 when his government took office to $114,000,000 today. In 1962, he said, the entire provincial debt will be paid off.

"The government is putting aside $25,000,000 to retire the debt," he said. "If we didn't have to put that money aside, look what we could pass on as a saving to the public."

He claimed it was the "poor people" who supported the government in 1952 "and for that reason we will never forget the poor people."

He said the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will show a net profit of $1,500,000 this year, and described the extension of the line from Vancouver to Prince George as "the government's pride and joy."

SHE'S MAD—Lady Docker, glamorous wife of Sir Bernard Docker, deposed millionaire chairman of the giant Birmingham Small Arms combine, said today she is thinking of changing her nationality after her husband's resounding defeat, Wednesday in his attempt to regain his job.

TENDERS TOO HIGH

Marigold School Plans Postponed

Plans for a new four-room Marigold Elementary School this year were dropped by Greater Victoria School Board Wednesday night when all of seven tenders submitted were rejected as too high.

The project will likely be re-submitted to district ratepayers in December along with several secondary school additions or new constructions. It is expected the board will now ask the Marigold school be constructed as an eight-room unit.

Lowest tender opened Wednesday was for $114,628 by E. J. Hunter and Sons. The department of education confirmed the board's action. Original board estimates, included in the last school building by-law, were $80,000. Two bids were received for construction of an eight-room addition to Margaret Jenkins School. These were also well over the original estimates of $236,100.

Tender by Howe and Wilson Construction Company was $318,668. Farmer Construction Ltd. asked $33,699 for the job. Buildings and grounds committee will review the tenders.

The increase in cost estimates was thought to have been due to boosts in steel prices anticipated in the wake of the recent U.S. steel strike.

Equal Milk Payments Will Start Sept. 1

Equalization of milk payments—key recommendations in the Cline royal commission report on milk—will go into effect Sept. 1, Agriculture Minister Kiernan announced to a Social Credit rally at Chilliwack Wednesday.

Mr. Kiernan said since it will be accompanied by formula pricing, which is based in part on costs of production, it may be expected to provide at least a measure of relief for dairy-men from high feed costs.

ISLAND DIGEST

Irate Ratepayers Fail To Alter School By-Law

TOFINO—One of the stormiest public meetings ever held here accomplished exactly nothing after an evening's discussion of the contentious $250,000 school development by-law defeated here June 8.

Ratepayers objected to expenditure of $100,000 for a gymnasium-auditorium at Ucluelet High School and asked the board if an alternative plan had been drawn.

H. C. Ferguson, school inspector, supported the school board in its refusal to alter the by-law in any way, and the meeting was told the by-law would be presented over and over again in its present form until passed.

Major items are the $100,000 for the gymnasium, $125,000 for classroom additions and alterations, and $25,000 for plans, sundries, and supervision.

It was suggested that a high school be built at Long Beach, midway between Tofino and Ucluelet, to save Tofino students 58 miles of bus travel daily. Mr. Ferguson said the education department would not consider such a proposition since the site is not in a centre of population.

He also rejected a proposal that a junior high school be built in Tofino, saying more than 300 students were required for a junior high.

New Resort Sub-Division Sells Well

PARKVILLE—Capilano Highlands (1952) Ltd. of Vancouver has announced considerable development at its new "Beachcomber" resort subdivision five miles south of here.

The project consists of 350 lots on Cottam Point, known locally as Tongue Point. Situated north of Nanossee Bay, the point measures one mile by one-quarter mile, and faces Georgia Strait to the east and Northwest Bay to the west.

More than a mile of road has been built, or two-thirds of the total, and one and one-half miles of water pipe have been installed. Source of water will be Enos Lake, two miles south of the subdivision, which will be dammed.

Telephone and electric power services are available.

With Jo Healy

CAYCUSE—OCCASIONALLY I WASTE A LITTLE time thumbing through a magazine, not reading anything in particular but mostly enjoying the wonders of advertising. One appealingly comical gimmick is the drawing that touts a sun-tan lotion... shows a most fetching infant crawling along with its diapers pulled down by a equally fetching, mischievous pup-dog... the infant anatomy usually covered by the triangle innocently white in comparison to the rest of the sun-browned, sturdy little body... caption says, "don't be a pale-face."

NEXT IN APPEAL IS THE GAP-TOOTHED GRIN ON the youngster who beams over the words "this space reserved for a tooth that must last for 68 years." I'm not too observant, though, and had to leaf through several magazines to find out what tooth-paste company dreamed up that one... found out it's the brand I buy, not because it contains secret formula W.D-9, but because the kids prefer the flavor... found out why after reading the ad through... it says, "that new minty flavor goes great with everybody."

SO IF, LIKE I, YOU LOOK AT THE PICTURES, READ the captions, but skip the text, make an exception when you come across the tractor company advertisement that sells nothing but a plea for caution and commonsense. Rated by an annual awards committee as the most distinguished public-interest advertisement of the year, the simplicity of the from-the-shoulder dialogue by the central figure in the picture, of the picture itself, and of the caption "Ever Watch a Forest Die?" makes for a sell-out.

The man in the ad, a steel-helmeted, smoke-begrimed operator, leans wearily against the bulldozer with which he has been fighting a forest fire. In the background smoke swirls around the charred tree trunks, curls over the blackened ground. The man's shoulders slump in fatigue. He tells of fighting this fire, tells of his thoughts as he rests there. He tells of the million-dollar loss we'll read about in the papers, and what we won't see in the papers—"the red hell that turned big trees into living torches... you won't hear the roar of it or know the black discouragement of falling back, defeated, time after time... I remember the scorched young trees that would have been forest some day..."

He says, "Last of all I think of you. Was it you who dropped the match? You who tossed the cigarette out the car window, or left the campfire smoldering? If it was, I wish you'd been here with me to see this forest die."

THEY'RE RUGGED, TOO

Rolls Royce Power For B.C. Logging

Rolls-Royce engines, that helped win two wars for Great Britain, and which until now have been associated only with the aristocracy of motordom, are making things hum in B.C.'s logging industry.

They are not the Merlins that powered Spitfires and Hurricanes, or the silky smooth gas-line engines of the famous Rolls-Royce cars, but rugged six-cylinder diesels that are trading punches with other industrial engines and coming out on top. MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. has 19 logging trucks powered with the British motors at work on Vancouver Island, and finds they use less fuel, less lubricant, and cost less for maintenance than those in other trucks operating under similar conditions.

TWO-WAY BENEFIT

They are here because H. R. MacMillan felt something should be done to decrease Great Britain's $251,000,000 trade deficit with Canada.

"It is obviously in the self-interest of the British Columbia forest industry to try to buy a larger volume of British goods," Mr. MacMillan told the Sloan Royal Commission on Forestry. "MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. are finding it can be done satisfactorily and on a competitive basis."

Two were purchased as a test and 17 more were put to work on the strength of the reputation established by the originals. They are now beginning to replace other engines on stationary logging units.

ONLY A MURMUR

Specifications show the motors have a displacement of 742.64 cubic inches, develop 185 horsepower without super-charging and 250 horsepower with superchargers. Drivers like the British product because of its quiet operation under even the heaviest loads—more of a murmur than the customary roar of power usually associated with a logging truck.

The logs are the same and the trucks are the same. Only outward difference is that the trucks with the British engines under the hood carry a sideplate with the proud message: "Powered by Rolls-Royce."

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

They don't hardly make black automobiles anymore, and I take a dim view of the situation.

I can remember a time when the possession of a black automobile was within the reach of all.

In fact, I can even remember when Henry Ford (the original, nonpareil) said: "We'll make them any color you wish, as long as it is black."

But today, if you go shopping for a black automobile, the best you can expect from the car salesman is a black look.

"Magenta we have," he will say. "Shocking pink with charcoal brown, plus pink plum beautiful, we have. But," the salesman will say, "black we ain't got."

Possibly I could stagger through the rest of my allotted span without a black automobile. But a friend (should I say acquaintance?) of mine is in desperate need of same.

This friend (maybe I should say acquaintance) has decided to take up a new line of work.

He has decided to become a gangster.

Over the years, this acquaintance (maybe I should say a man I happen to know) has husbanded his resources, lived frugally, putting aside a little here, a little there, toward the day when he could go into business as a gangster.

He has acquired a black cigar, a black homburg, and a blackjack.

But he cannot find a black automobile.

And he realizes every gangster must have a black automobile for reliable witnesses to see speeding away from the scene of the crime.

This man I happen to know (maybe I should say a man with whom I have a nodding acquaintance) does not wish reliable witnesses to report him speeding away from the scene of the crime in a cream-and-coffee colored convertible.

Or even a light-yellow and cerise hardtop.

When he flees from the scene of the crime, he wishes to do so in a sinister black sedan.

This man with whom I have a nodding acquaintance (to tell the truth, the face is familiar but I can't quite place the name) is going to be frustrated in his ambition to become a gangster unless someone will produce a black automobile.

If no black automobile is forthcoming, he will have to secure a pink cigar, a scarlet homburg, and a bluejack.

Please, automobile makers, do not have a frustrated gangster on your hands.

Bring out a whole new line of colors, any color you wish, as long as it is black.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

In Wednesday's edition of The Times the address of Earl S. Upton, appearing in city police court, was incorrectly given as 419 Belleville.

It should have been 1941 Ash.

Jerry Gosley's recording of "We're Going to Fight to Keep Victoria British" went on sale Wednesday in music stores across Canada and the United States.

Reverse side of the record features Irene Henderson and Al Denoni in "On Vancouver Island," another Gosley song.

Both songs are heard in the Gosley Smile Show, staged Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Langham Court Theatre.

Victoria's juvenile court handled a total of 144 charges in the first six months of this year, police records disclose.

Included were seven charges of incorrigibility, five for drunkenness or possession of liquor, and seven charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency. Fines totalled $384 and 20 persons, some adults, were sentenced to industrial schools or Oakalla prison farm.

B.C.'s first atlas of resources is on display in the Ewing Building, Victoria College.

First volume of its kind to be published in North America, the 100-page atlas comprises several years' work by the British Columbia Resources Conference. Maps were compiled, draughted, lithographed and printed within the province. The atlas is designed for use in schools and businesses. Display closes next Tuesday.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC CALLS FOR BIG DAY

An appeal for 400 pints of blood to offset a "very disappointing" yield of 120 pints in Wednesday's clinic went out today from Red Cross headquarters.

"Usually we receive close to 600 pints in a two-day session," Major T. Hogarth, chairman of the blood donor panel said today. "If we don't get 400 pints today, there won't be enough blood in the blood bank to supply the normal demand for local hospitals."

Red Cross clinic continues today at 1046 Fort Street, from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m., and 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

WINNER of a $2,000 Chris Spencer Foundation special scholarship to university is Joseph John Haegert, 17, who averaged 91.25 per cent in grade 12 departmental exams at Victoria High school this year. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haegert, 1516 Pembroke street, he was president of the Vic High student council and active in dramatic and glee clubs. He also took part in YMCA and Boy Scout activities. A track star, he holds the juvenile Canadian 440 and the juvenile B.C. 220 records. He will enter Victoria College in the fall, to major in science.

TORONTO SWIM TWINS TEAMED

Three Others Coming to Try Strait, 'Only 18 Miles', Easy, Says Jareme

By DENNY BOYD

Juan de Fuca Strait today was threatened by the greatest one-two distance swimming punch in Canada and there was the threat of more punishment to come for the much-challenged, once-conquered Strait.

Cliff Lumsdon, who picked up $5,000 for his dramatic stretch-drive victory over Tom Park in last month's Atlantic City 26-mile marathon, arrived in Victoria Wednesday night to team with Toronto Lakeshore club-mate Marilyn Bell in training for strait challenge.

Lumsdon wasted no time in his training program. He was in the water at 9 this morning with Marilyn for a one-hour flip around Oak Bay waters while Gus Ryder, the most successful coach in the long-distance game, put them through their paces.

Marilyn is training for a solo swim for a minimum prize of $20,000. Lumsdon will help Marilyn train and will be readying himself for the Junior Chamber of Commerce mass race for a minimum total of $6,000 in cash prizes, Aug. 26.

Meanwhile, from the east, Pat Roach wired The Times that he would be in Victoria Aug. 11 with swimmers John Jareme, Bill Sadlo and Ann Meraw to try the strait.

even though she had told her handlers before the swim not to pay any attention if she asked to come out.

Lumsdon also gave a description of his Atlantic City duel with his rival, Tom Park.

"We swam together for 12 miles and then he opened up a short lead in the 13th mile when I weakened a little. When I got some nourishment I caught him and we kept leap-frogging. In the last 100 yards we started a sprint and I knew then that he didn't have much left. I took a couple of extra leaps and beat him by half the length of my body."

The Jaycees will attempt to boost their cash prizes over the $6,000 mark Friday night when they hold a Dutch auction, taking pledges by telephone.

Headquarters will be at Morrison Motors, where telephone pledges will be taken. A fleet of cars will be dispatched to pick up the pledged contributions for the swim, to which the biggest names in world-wide distance swimming have been invited.

He said that Shirley Campbell's failure in Lake Ontario this week was due to the fact that her swim was aimed too strongly at breaking Marilyn Bell's record without sufficient thought to pacing.

"She was taken over too fast and she didn't have anything left when the going got tough. I went in to pace her with seven miles left and she was begging to be taken out of the water the destruction of nations, said Ames Rosvold, Vancouver, and it will happen "in God's due time." Armageddon itself, he went on, is based on the long range prophecy of Christ.

It will come "in this generation," said Bill Johnson, Vancouver, and natural forces will bring it about.

"The A-bomb hasn't much power, when compared with earthquakes."

Lorne McGregor, Victoria, said that when the nations say "peace and safety for all, then Armageddon will come."

He said that Witnesses are not the judge of who will or who won't be saved in the final destruction, and quoted the Bible to the effect "by their fruits ye shall know them."

He said further "we believe we have the truth, otherwise we'd be hypocrites."

Mrs. Kathleen Ainley, Parksville, said "there are 38 signs pointing to Armageddon, and we are living through the time of the last sign. When Jerusalem is surrounded by armies, flee to the hills."

Thomas Forsyth, Vancouver, said "Matthew 24 and Luke 21 point almost entirely to certain events leading to the approach of Armageddon. These signs started with the First World War and have been continuing. You

Big Rain Ends Ban On Forest Activity

The partial industrial and complete recreational forest closure imposed on Vancouver forest district at midnight July 23 was lifted at noon today.

Removal of the closure order, the second this year, followed extensive rain over Vancouver Island south of the Campbell River and along the mainland coast west of the Cascades.

Elsewhere in Vancouver forest district humidity is very high with a consequent increase in forest-fuel moisture content.

"Fire hazard throughout the district is now moderate," Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said.

Except for a purely local shower over Victoria Wednesday, the rain was the first in the lower Vancouver Island area since July 6. Victoria recorded 1.03 inches for the 30 hours preceding 11.30 a.m. today.

"Although more rain is expected today and Friday, by Friday afternoon skies will be generally sunny over Vancouver forest district," a spokesman said.

man for the forest protection service said. "Humidity is expected to remain high."

PUBLIC THANKED

Mr. Williston signed the order ending restrictions on woods travel shortly before noon after a conference with provincial forestry officials and by phone with the district forester in Vancouver.

"We are very grateful to the public for the way they have co-operated during the recent period of extreme hazard," the minister said.

"Everyone has been so careful that the number and extent of fires in the district have been kept to a minimum. Holidaymakers and travellers show an increasing awareness of forest fire restrictions and consulted with forestry officials before visiting areas likely to be closed."

going to throw acid in your pretty face."

Lillian Mary French, 326 Simcoe, said the statement was made to her over the telephone by Josephine M. Perram, Johnson Street.

Mrs. Perram has pleaded not guilty to a charge of threatening.

At the completion of today's trial Magistrate Henry Hall remanded her until Friday for a decision.

Mrs. French, manager of Island Taxi, said she had also received a threatening letter from Mrs. Perram four days before the telephone call.

Mrs. Perram's husband, Walter, was employed as a driver for Island Taxi for four years until his death in December of last year.

Defence witness Doreen Clair May, 770 Queens, testified that Mrs. Perram was with her at her home between 8 and 9 p.m. on the night of July 18, when the phone call was alleged to have been made.

On the witness stand Mrs. Perram said, "I'm not guilty of this or anything else. I'm not a vicious person."

Under questioning by prosecutor Alan Bigelow Mrs. Perram said she would agree to enter into a bond to be of good behavior to Mrs. French.

Appointment of Dr. Desmond F. (Cap) Kidd, Vancouver consulting geologist, as provincial commissioner of the B.C.-Yukon Boy Scouts' Association was announced today.

He succeeds Col. Cyril T. Batten who died suddenly last year. Dr. Kidd's duties will start immediately in the rapid-growing, 27,000-member Scout organization.

Born in London, Eng., in 1905, he came to B.C. in 1911 and because of his size, became a Scout three years later despite being three years below regulation age of 12.

The Wolf Cub branch of the movement, covering boys 8-12 was not started until 1916 in B.C.

He transferred from a Kerrisdale group to First New Westminster Troop, where he became Scoutmaster until 1922.

From 1930-35 Dr. Kidd was staff geologist for Geological Survey of Canada, doing explorations on Hudson Bay and Great Bear Lake. He joined Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy in 1929, became its president in 1952 for one year.

In addition he is a member of numerous professional and technical organizations, officer or director of three mining firms and a consulting geologist for B.C. Power Commission.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When was the first airplane flight made between England and France?—L.P.

A.—July 25, 1909. On that day Louis Bleriot, a French inventor and aviator, flew the 23.5 miles from Calais to the Shakespeare Cliff, near Dover, in 38 minutes in a monoplane of his own invention.

By doing that he won 1,000 pounds sterling offered by the London Daily Mail as a prize for the first aviator to make an unbroken daylight flight across the English Channel. M. Bleriot, born July 1, 1872, died in Paris Aug. 3, 1936.

6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses Testify Faith in Assembly Here

By TONY DICKASON

When and how will the battle of Armageddon come about?

Jehovah's Witnesses in convention here today made these points:

The world's cataclysmic battle will come "in our generation."

Peace will follow after the wicked are destroyed.

The righteous will then live forever in "God's original plan."

Witnesses interviewed on the floor of the Memorial Arena today showed a surprising unanimity of belief. All were willing and happy to talk about their faith.

Witnesses, who claim to be members of one of the fastest-growing bodies of religious believers in the world of today, base their belief largely on the Book of Revelation.

Reference to Armageddon is given in the following Biblical passage, Revelation, Chapter 16, Verses 16 to 20:

"And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon."

"And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air and there came a great voice out of the temple of Heaven, from the throne, saying, 'It is done.'"

"And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great."

"And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell; and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath."

"And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found."

"We believe firmly that Armageddon will strike in our generation," said Donald Dovey, Vancouver. "The Bible gives evidence that it will be brought about by natural forces, which will eliminate wickedness. All persons of good will towards God will be preserved, though affiliation with the true religion is necessary."

It will be a period of tribulation for everyone on earth, he said, and then permanent peace will follow.

Charles F. Martin, Vancouver, said "all signs show Armageddon in this generation."

He said the world suffers pain today in its conflicts, so "anything that ends that will be a blessing."

"We were created to live on this earth forever, like Adam, and death after Armageddon will end with the removal of those now ruining the earth."

The battle itself will mean

the destruction of nations, said Ames Rosvold, Vancouver, and it will happen "in God's due time."

Armageddon itself, he went on, is based on the long range prophecy of Christ.

It will come "in this generation," said Bill Johnson, Vancouver, and natural forces will bring it about.

"The A-bomb hasn't much power, when compared with earthquakes."

Lorne McGregor, Victoria, said that when the nations say "peace and safety for all, then Armageddon will come."

He said that Witnesses are not the judge of who will or who won't be saved in the final destruction, and quoted the Bible to the effect "by their fruits ye shall know them."

He said further "we believe we have the truth, otherwise we'd be hypocrites."

Mrs. Kathleen Ainley, Parksville, said "there are 38 signs pointing to Armageddon, and we are living through the time of the last sign. When Jerusalem is surrounded by armies, flee to the hills."

Thomas Forsyth, Vancouver, said "Matthew 24 and Luke 21 point almost entirely to certain events leading to the approach of Armageddon. These signs started with the First World War and have been continuing. You

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teen-Age, Too, Benefits From Marathon Plan

Evidently one can feel old at any age. I always have contended that age is much more a state of mind and of health than of years. The following letter is from a 17-year-old girl.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I was chunky as a little girl. Then came the first teen-age years. When I was 12 I hated the way I looked. I was so fat through the middle that I had trouble buying pretty dresses like my friends wore. Everyone said I would outgrow it.

"By the time I was 14 the other girls had pretty figures but I was fatter. When I was 15 my friends were having dates but I had none. I know that the kids at school did not mean to be mean but they kidded me about how fat I was.

"Mrs. Lowman, I might as well have been 50 as 15 for all the fun I had, and I was so miserable. I was ashamed of the way I looked and because I never had a boy ask me for a date. I guess I just sort of gave up. I stayed away from the gang as much as possible. It wasn't hard to do since all my girl friends were interested in their boy friends.

"I had been reading 'Why Grow Old?' for a long time and one day you wrote about the overweight girl. Last January mother said that I could write for your Marathon booklet. My doctor said it was all right for me to cut my calories to 1800 each day. He told me what foods I must have each day.

"I was so desperate and so full of hope at the same time that I stuck to it and lost 23 pounds. You will never know what this has meant to me because I bet you were never fat like I was when you were my age.

Overweight and physical defects are usually much more damaging to the personality of a teen-ager than to that of the mature woman. The average teen-ager is very sensitive about her appearance. Many mothers make the mistake of failing to realize what really serious repercussions these can have on the future of their daughters.

September in August Preview Seen in Fashions At Women's Symphony Committee Party

There was a hint of autumn in the air, Wednesday, providing a suitable atmosphere for an elegant outdoor showing of fashions for fall, 1956, presented by the T. Eaton Company.

The event took place at Arlow Farm, spacious seaside estate of Capt. and Mrs. Massy Goulden, where the Women's Symphony Committee to the Victoria Symphony Society presented its annual garden party.

Models strolled along the stone patio of the Goulden home, the deep foliage green of rock shrubbery supplementing the feeling of fall.

All the femininity and grace of line held as fashion's newest trends in recent New York showings were reflected in this local presentation.

The words "Regency look... Empire line... Edwardian influence" were spoken again and again by commentator Ida Bianco, who told spectators how fashion is swinging back to past eras.

The Edwardian influence was exemplified in a fitted coat for fall, worn by Pat Cannon. Its dropped back waistline had a slimming effect and the huge "elephant ear" pockets and neat collar accented the luxury Veldyne fabric. With it, Miss Cannon wore the Casablanca cloche of pearl grey beaver.

Salad for Tomorrow

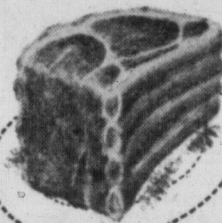

Cucumber and radishes make a good flavor combination and an extra pretty one if they are put together this way. For each side salad take about a quarter of a peeled cucumber and cut it not quite all the way through, in thin slices, making a sort of fan-shape. Between the slices of the cucumber fans place thin radish slices, letting them protrude at the top of the cucumber. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with cream and paprika dressing. To make the dressing, substitute cream for oil in your French dressing recipe and add paprika.

B.C. POTATO SALAD
Six to 8 medium B.C. new potatoes, 1 cup salad oil, ½ cup cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ½ teaspoon mustard seed, ½ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ cup finely chopped parsley.

Cook potatoes in jackets until just done. Drain. Peel while still hot by securing potato on fork and dipping under cold water tap. Slice. Heat oil and vinegar just to a boil. Pour over potato slices. Add celery seed and mustard seed. Cool. Chill. Just before serving add onion and parsley. Check seasonings. Add more oil and vinegar if necessary as well as seasonings, if required. Makes six to eight servings.

Alaska Rail Link Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill setting up an Alaska international rail and highway commission to study the feasibility of transportation links between the United States and Alaska.

U.S. Army engineers in 1942 surveyed a route for a railroad from Prince George, B.C., to Ketchikan, Alaska. The survey indicated such a railroad would cost $112,000,000.

Stella Folks!

Catching Up on My Notes
—When we went out to the airport last night to meet Cliff Lumsdon, I was all ready to give him a sisterly hand-shake. After all, The Chief is married now and to the former Joan Cooke, one of my best girl friends.

But when Cliff stepped off the plane, he said, "Hi, Shorty," and gave me a peck on the cheek. We had to repeat the performance three times for the benefit of photographers and then Cliff embarrassed the daylight out of me by enquiring loudly, "Any more photographers around?"

Sarcasm? The Chief has enough for two people. I was driving him in from the airport and the first time I stopped for a stop sign, Cliff said sweetly, "Your driving certainly has improved."

The worst part of my training swim is when I come out of the water and land at the Oak Bay Boatouse. It's not the water or the swimming that gets me. It's that tantalizing smell of hamburgers and onions frying in butter that wafts down from the coffee shop. And I can't have any.

When we came in from our six-hour swim the other day, we met a Victoria man at the jetty. His name was Ken Lloyd and he had a piece of rolled-up paper in his hand. He showed it to Gus and me, and of all things, it was a Lakeshore Swimming Club certificate, signed by Gus, stating that Ken Lloyd had passed the Lakeshore 50-foot swimming test 18 years ago. Did someone say something about a small world?

I had my hair trimmed at the Hilda Beauty Salon yesterday and they were so nice to me that I became even more convinced than ever that Victoria people are among the nicest in the world.

Eden Moves Forces Into Canal Region

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced she is moving land, sea and air force units to the eastern Mediterranean in the Suez Canal crisis and has advised British nationals in Egypt to get out of the country.

These stern moves were announced in quick succession as the Big Three foreign ministers completed a plan for internationalizing the Suez Canal, nationalized by Egypt.

(United Press quoted "informed sources" as saying the plan includes an unwritten understanding Britain would be responsible for keeping the waterway open until international control begins.)

Prime Minister Eden told a hushed House of Commons that reserve troops are being called up and naval, army and air force units are moving into the eastern Mediterranean "to deal with any situation that may arise."

The Queen tonight signed proclamation orders calling up specialist soldiers from the reserve for emergency duties in the Mediterranean.

'Anything Could Happen... Lloyd

The crisis developments came as U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Christian Pineau neared the end of their talks on a plan to internationalize control of the vital Suez waterway.

Lloyd told Commons "we are in broad agreement with our French and American allies on this matter."

"It is a very serious situation. Many British subjects are in Egypt. Many British ships are approaching the canal. It is a situation in which anything could happen."

Lloyd said Britain is determined to be "absolutely firm" in its dispute with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"We feel that this great international waterway is not to be left at the mercy, caprices, or spleen or hatreds of one power or one man," he said.

In his opening address, Eden said the military moves serve as "a precautionary measure."

"The object is to strengthen

France Readies Show of Force

Eden said Britain also would recall to duty "a strictly limited number of men who are specialists and skilled for certain essential tasks."

Eden told the Commons these measures had been taken "to strengthen our position in the eastern Mediterranean and our ability to deal with any situation which may arise."

The military moves, he continued, were taken "in view of the situation created by the action of the Egyptian government" in nationalizing the canal on which "the industrial life of Western Europe literally depends."

The prime minister charged that nationalization of the canal violated the 1954 British-Egyptian treaty which provides for the future of the Suez Canal Zone and under which Britain withdrew her troops from the zone.

That treaty, Eden said, recognized that the canal was "a waterway economically, commercially and strategically of international importance."

FRANCE ALERTS FLEET

"How can this be reconciled with the Egyptian government's action against the Suez Canal Company?" he demanded.

Meanwhile, in Paris the French indicated they were readying a show of strength.

The French navy ministry said units of the fleet assembled at the Mediterranean port of Toulon had been ordered to get ready to weigh anchor "for an unknown destination."

An official source who declined to allow publication of his identity said the order was in connection with the Suez crisis.

EXPECTING IN FEBRUARY

Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco is expecting a baby in February, Prince Rainier proudly told his people in a radio broadcast today. The beautiful movie actress and the Monaco prince were married last April 18. Joy among the Monegasques is unbounded today—an heir to the throne will bring continued freedom from French taxes and military service.

New CCF Policy Stirs Hot Debate

See also Page 3

WINNIPEG (CP)—The CCF national convention today bogged down for more than an hour in debate over the party's proposed new draft of principles calling for support of private business.

Long discussion on one paragraph of the 24-paragraph declaration uncovered wide divergence of opinion among delegates and indicated how sharp the political rift the CCF is planning to turn.

Swift adoption of 13 paragraphs of the new declaration, which is to supersede the 1933 Regina Manifesto, was held up by sometimes heated speeches on a section that advocated aid and opportunity to private enterprise "which can make a useful contribution to the development of our economy."

The section originally gave CCF approval to "increased opportunities and security for private business." However, about 200 delegates carried an amendment moved by George Grube of Toronto changing the wording to:

"The CCF, therefore, will provide appropriate opportunities for private business..."

Premier Douglas gave per-haps the strongest defence of private enterprise.

"Socialism and state ownership are not synonymous terms," he said. "Nowhere have we said public ownership is the only means of enriching the life of the people."

MANY IN MIDDLE

Great sections of the Canadian people were middle class, small business owners, he added. They were not the "dis-

Amy Fighting Cold, Fatigue

Amy Hiland, Long Beach, California, Strait challenger, was 3 1/2 miles from the Victoria Breakwater at 3 this afternoon and still swimming strongly.

Although suffering somewhat from cold and fatigue, after nine hours, 20 minutes in the water, Mrs. Hiland was still able to maintain her powerful crawl stroke and was aiming directly for Victoria's skyline, which she could see clearly from the water. She was due east of Albert Head and water conditions were near perfect with a flat calm and only a slight breeze.

Pilotage authorities told the Times that if Mrs. Hiland can stay in for two or three more hours, conditions should be right for her to complete her swim.

Mrs. Hiland, who was pulled out of the water less than two miles from Victoria, suffering from complete exhaustion and near-hysteria in her first try July 13, started today's swim from Ediz Hook at 5:38 a.m.

By 9:30 she was stroking through a moderate chop and had crossed the international boundary.

By 10:30, her 52-beat stroke had taken her nine miles out from her starting point on a slightly tacking course and she had been in the water four hours and 50 minutes.

Mrs. Hiland was taking hourly feedings of a mixture comprising warm milk, Ovaltine, maple syrup and dextrose.

She started to receive the benefit of the flood tide at 10:45 and by 11:30 had swum 11 miles and was 7 1/2 miles in a direct line from Port Angeles.

By 12:30, the 1 1/2-knot flood tide was pushing her towards Victoria and she was going through a slight rip-tide off Race Rocks.

UN Control of Suez Favored by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government backs the principle of international control of the Suez Canal and hopes it can be done under United Nations auspices.

External Affairs Minister Pearson outlined that stand in the Commons Wednesday and followed it up with an intimation that the Western Big Three hope to settle the Egyptian crisis without use of force.

Mr. Pearson spoke in a one-day external affairs debate in which the fast-developing Suez question bulked large.

He said the government supports international control of the vital waterway "with the countries having the greatest interest in the operation of the canal sharing in that control, preferably, if this turns out to be practicable, under the aegis of the United Nations."

ENDANGER LIFELINE

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative spokesman, said Canada should announce it is giving moral support to the Big Three powers in their stand against Egypt's move, closing the canal would endanger Britain's lifeline in its fight against Russia's economic offensive.

Alistair Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North) agreed the UN should control the canal and A. B. Patterson (SC—Fraser Valley) said the proposal has merit. The Social Credit spokesman said something should be done to curb the "enthusiasm" of Egypt's President Nasser.

The debate raised again the issue of Israel's long-pending application for government approval of a purchase of some 24 Sabre jet aircraft.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Stewart and the Commons only Jewish member, Leon Crestohl (L—Montreal Cartier), all urged that the shipment be approved.

Mr. Pearson said the government wants to be pretty certain the shipment "will be conducive to security and stability in the area."

He also elaborated on the purpose of recent talks by Canada with two or three other governments on arms shipments to Israel.

The talks were conducted "not to concerting a plan or a collective agreement governing shipments of arms of Israel but with a view to seeing whether the responsibilities in this matter can be shared and whether our plans and our policies are in agreement."

Myrna Hunter Runs in Circles But Gets There Just the Same

A summertime feature, Tops in Teens, will seek to focus the spotlight on Victoria and district teen-agers who are representative of the great majority of our fine young people.

One girl who "ran around in circles" still managed first-class honors at the end of her freshman year at Victoria College.

Myrna Hunter, 17, is next year's president of WUGS—the Women's Undergraduate Society—and was active in bowling, jazz and glee clubs last year. She also played basketball for the college women's team and edited the club's section of the Tower yearbook.

Towards the end of the year, her schedule became rather hectic, but, says Myrna, "I run around in circles all year. I'm used to it."

Although she admits she is not particularly efficient and gets "just as muddled as anyone," she maintains a high standard in her studies.

Her average at Christmas was 85.5 per cent, and in June, 84 per cent. Her June marks were: physics, 86 per cent; French, 83; chemistry, 85; English, 84, and math, 82.

Myrna attended first year college on scholarships from the Canadian Women's Club and the IODE. For her freshman average, she won the Robert V. Anderson memorial scholarship.

To ensure high marks, Myrna plans to cut down activities next term.

"I think I'll cut out sports," she said. "I'm not really good at them anyway."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hunter, 363 Kinvier Street.

contented proletariat" of early Europe.

Premier Douglas continued: "The element of choice is desirable in an economy. Where choice is taken away then freedom is lost."

However, Charlie Bieseck, Winnipeg delegate, pleaded that the CCF should not place itself in Liberal hands.

"After all, the Liberals have co-operative enterprise. We should go forward along the path adopted in 1933 (in the Regina Manifesto)."

Support came from Spencer Cheshire, Durham, Ont., who charged that some party members were being swayed by capitalist propaganda. He objected to an economy half Socialist and half free enterprise.

Canadians are too accustomed to private enterprise and the CCF must make clear it does not want to support private business, he said.

But Mr. Lewis claimed the idea must be abandoned that free enterprise must be merely tolerated.

"We must favor its growth in making a contribution to society. In the half of the world where it has been abolished a totalitarian government now exists."

The paragraph as approved by a big majority of delegates recognizes "the need for private enterprise," urges "appropriate opportunities" for it and publicly-owned industry and supports ownership of private farms, homes and personal possessions.

2-Pound Bullhead Wins Fish Derby

More than 500 youngsters and spectators turned out to city playground's annual fishing derby off the breakwater Wednesday afternoon—but only nine fish were caught.

Top winner was Guy Price, who pulled in a two-pound bullhead, to win first prize of a split-cane rod and case. Other winners were Roger Penner, 11, and Michael Harrison, 10, who each received prizes of a reel and line.

Dr. Carl Clifford of the provincial museum of natural history described the winning fish as an unusually large fish. Salt-water bullheads are a variety of sculpin, described as "marine bullheads" to distinguish them from the fresh-water catfish, also called a bullhead.

CANADIANS IN EGYPT CHECKED BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Embassy at Cairo has been asked to report on the number of Canadian citizens in Egypt, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He added, however, that he hopes the request will not indicate there is "any special crisis or emergency" in that country.

The minister said he has had no confirmation that Britain has issued a warning to its citizens to leave Egypt, but Canada is making inquiries about that.

orizing the minister of transport to requisition any passenger ships needed for sudden troop movements. The transport ministry would neither confirm nor deny the reports, but British troops at home and in the Mediterranean area already have been alerted for quick action in case of violence in the Suez.

U.S. ON FRINGE
Strong demands for military action to keep the Suez Canal open have been made in London and Paris since Nasser announced last week Egypt was nationalizing the strategic waterway. But expectations of military action declined in the British capital since U. S. State Secretary Dulles arrived. He is reported to have said the United States would not join in.

Diplomatic experts worked through the night in London preparing the draft of the proposal for an international conference on the Suez to which the countries using the canal most would be invited, along with Egypt and the Soviet Union.

Under the plan, the Western Big Three would call a conference of interested countries to be held within a few weeks, perhaps in London.

With the invitation would go a proposal for what French informants described as an international organization to "manage" the canal. British sources said the proposed organization would "control or supervise" the vital 103-mile waterway.

CAIRO SILENT
There was no official comment from Cairo on the Big Three's plan. But observers in the Egyptian capital were convinced President Nasser would reject any form of international control which would appear to infringe on Egyptian sovereignty.

These sources said Nasser could not afford to appear to yield to Western pressure after skyrocketing his prestige in the Arab world by announcing the nationalization of the Suez Canal Company.

Some observers in Cairo believed, however, that Nasser might accept an expansion of the nine-power international convention of 1888 which guarantees freedom of all shipping through the canal.
